SOUTH WINS CIVIL RIGHTS FIGHT

Democrats Will Meet Tomorrow To Pick Nominee

The attention of Westmoreland County will be centered on Greensburg tomorrow afternoon when the 126-member executive body of the county Democratic Party gathers to select the party's choice of the third judicial nominee for the November general election.

The meeting will be held in the Crystal Room of the Penn Albert Hotel in Greensburg beginning at 2 p. m. It will be an open meeting, but committee members will be seated first.

The executive committee is made up of a chairman and vice chairman from each of the county's 63 municipalities, or a total of 126 members.

It will be the committee's job to make a choice from six candidates: David H. Weiss, of Monessen; Paul W. Mahady, of Latrobe; John K. Best, of Jeannette; James L. McWherter, of Derry; Vincent E. Williams, of Greensburg, and Joseph M. Loughran, also of Greensburg.

Race 'Wide Open'

Top Democratic leaders in the county are surprisingly silent publicly on their choice. Most of them, according to a survey by The Daily Independent, say the race for the coveted spot still is considered "wide open" — even at this late date.

Rumors making the rounds of the courthouse say the "regular" county Democratic group is at odds because it cannot get together on a choice.

Some of the "regulars", reports said, favor Best or Williams. Another segment would like to have either Weiss or McWherter.

A reliable source said a group from the north end of the county believes Mahady is the best candidate.

Then, too, some say that Loughran should rate serious consideration because of the large vote he polled in the primary election after he split with party leaders over his candidacy for judge.

All six of the candidates are conducting lively campaigns for the vacancy created by the death of Judge George H. McWherter last April. The successful candidate tomorrow will be a running mate for L. Alexander Sculco, present district attorney, and Judge Edward G. Bauer.

Slated Choices

Sculco and Bauer won their nominations in a field of six candidates and were the slated choices of the courthouse organization. Loughran, who bolted from the party, ran a strong third while McWherter ran a poor fourth as a non-slated candidate.

The six candidates have been busy the past several weeks, making drives to contact each of the 126 members of the executive committee. Their reason being, of course, to round up enough general pledges to assure sufficient votes for tomorrow's meeting.

Weiss, with the reported backing of Chief of County Detectives Arthur B. (Buddy) Turner, of Pricedale, reputed "boss" of the powerful Democratic machine, and Mayor Hugo J. Parente, of Monessen, is said to have the inside track. However, he is being pressed by hard-workers Best, Mahady and Loughran.

Loughran, it is reported, has

Rash of Fires Sweep Southern California Area

By UNITED PRESS

No relief was in sight today for a four-day Southern California heat wave blamed for a rash of brush fires that burned out at least 13 homes in the Los Angeles basin.

Most of the precipitation Thursday night and today again was concentrated in the nation's midsection. Only a few light showers were reported in the drought-stricken sections of the East.

Southern California, baked tinder dry by a 100-degree heat wave, faced the threat of more brush fires as weathermen predicted mostly clear skies over the West today.

Three brush blazes Thursday blackened hundreds of acres of land and destroyed homes and cars as the fires swept from Pomona to the Hollywood Hills.

Firemen, hampered by inadequate water pressure in hydrants, brought the flames under control by night.

In the rain-soaked midlands, Minneapolis was doused by .82 inch of rain and Alexandria, Minn., by 1.25 inches during a 6-hour period Thursday night.

Cool air relief was predicted today for most of the northern plains, the upper Mississippi Valley and parts of the central plains.

Donora Police Arrest Suspect; Seeking Others

Donora police are holding a suspect in one burglary and rounding up suspects for another, Chief of Police John Pykosh reported.

Howard Crump, 24, of 1059 Marelda Ave., Donora, is being held in jail on a charge of burglarizing the Diamond Cleaners at Fourth St. and Meldon Ave. of $10 about three o'clock this morning. Police apprehended him two hours later.

Still unsolved is the burglary at the German Beneficial Union hall, also located at Fourth St. and Meldon Ave. A burglar broke into the club sometime yesterday morning and escaped with $100 in cash after ransacking pinball machines and a cash register.

Bingham said he was "greatly impressed" and that "many Pennsylvania ideas will be incorporated in my proposals for Tennessee."

Company D to Leave Tomorrow For Two Weeks

Pennsylvania's National Guard — including Monessen's Company D — will leave tomorrow for a two-week encampment of the 28th Infantry Division at Indiantown Gap.

The Monessen unit, under the command of Capt. Harry B. Davis, of Donora, will assemble at the Armory at 2 o'clock tomorrow morning. They are scheduled to depart on two chartered buses about 2 p. m.

Although the current company strength is 85, only 50 enlisted men and five officers will take part in the encampment. The remaining 30 Guardsmen will serve six-months active duty sometime during the year under another program.

Company D, a heavy weapons company, is scheduled to drill at the mortar range the first three days of the encampment. 1st Lt. Jack Sowden will be in charge of this phase of the training.

Company recruits will take special courses during the first week to acquaint them with basic infantry and basic weapon procedures.

The Monessen Guardsmen will return by bus on Aug. 18.

Police Look For Suspect In Masontown

MASONTOWN, Pa. (UP)—Police today searched for a young mine worker charged with the murder of Alvie Partridge, 80-year-old local storekeeper.

Fayette County Detective Chief James Eadie identified the suspect as Joseph Watreas, 29, of Masontown.

Watreas has been missing since Monday, the day Partridge was strangled. Police said a boot found at his home matched a boot-print found outside Partridge's store.

According to officials, Watreas' car was seen parked in front of the store Monday morning. The suspect's wife told police her husband seemed "very disturbed" and left home after Partridge's body was found.

Partridge had been strangled with two lengths of dynamite detonating wire.

Watreas is employed by the U.S. Steel Corp. as a maintenance worker in the nearby Karen mine.

Police said a warrant had been issued against him on charges of passing bad checks.

Local Woman Seeks Damages In Fatal Crash

A Monessen woman has filed a damage suit in Westmoreland County court as a result of an auto accident which took the life of her husband.

Plaintiff in the suit is Lillian Hall, administratrix of the estate of Allen Hall.

She named as defendants Lewis Lea, alias Ferris Lea, and Edward Bialousz.

The suit asks damages in excess of $2,500 on behalf of Hall's estate and damages of more than $2,500 on behalf of Hall's next of kin including his widow and four minor children.

The complaint states that on Feb. 4, 1956, Allen Hall was a passenger in an auto operated by Lea, one of the defendants, on Route 906, the Monessen-Webster highway in Rostraver Twp.

The suit claims Lea's car, in which Hall was riding collided with an auto operated by Bialousz, causing Hall to be thrown to the highway. Hall died the following day as a result of his injuries, according to the complaint.

It is claimed in the suit that the accident was due to negligence on the part of the operators of both autos.

Vote Registration Days Announced In Westmoreland

Vote registration dates in Westmoreland County for the November general election were announced today by Robert P. DeLotto, registration chief.

Registrations will be held in all boroughs Wednesday, Aug. 28; in townships Wednesday, Sept. 4, and in third class cities, such as Monessen, Wednesday, Sept. 4, and Wednesday, Sept. 11.

Registration hours will be from 1 to 9 p. m.

DeLotto also announced that the registration office in the courthouse in Greensburg will accept registrations on Sept. 12, 13, 14 and 16. Sept. 16 is the final day to register for the general election.

Local Man Is Cited in Florida

Peter Palmentera, of 10 Hartung Court in Monessen Park Plan, has been cited by Hollywood, Fla., officials for his alertness at a recent fire in the Florida community, where the local man was vacationing last month.

A member of the Monessen Volunteer Fire Department, Palmentera saw a Hollywood apartment on fire and fought the blaze with a garden hose until firemen arrived.

Officials said it was also Palmentera who reported the possibility of a person being in the burning apartment.

When Hollywood firemen arrived, they found a man burned to death.

Plans Outlined for New Rostraver School Building

Plans for a half-million dollar elementary school in Rostraver Twp. were revealed today by Superintendent of Schools E. F. Carter.

The school is scheduled for completion in time for the 1959-60 term. At the moment, detailed plans are being drawn.

Carter said the new building will be located near the million-dollar Junior High off of Route 51. It will accommodate about 400 students from grades one through six.

When completed, the new school will have 12 classrooms, a spacious multi-purpose room, a kitchen, library, health room, teacher's room and kindergarten.

The multi-purpose room will be used mainly as a cafeteria. However it may easily be converted into an assembly room, Carter pointed out.

'Lease' Agreement

The building will be financed through the State Public School Building Authority on a "lease-back" agreement.

Preliminary plans have already been approved by the state. Test borings are now being made at the site.

Carter predicted that contracts will be awarded this December.

It is estimated that the building will cost $480,455.60.

A Philadelphia firm of architects — Barney, Banwell, Armentrout and Divvens — are now preparing the detailed plans.

Webster School Old

Carter said the new building is needed because of the rapidly increasing school population in the township. He pointed out that some elementary buildings are already overcrowded.

Carter also said the Webster School is old and antiquated. In the past few years, classes there have been reduced from eight to four grades.

When the new school is ready, the century-old Webster building will probably be closed, the Rostraver superintendent said.

The modernistic elementary school will be a one-story structure with six classrooms on either side of the huge multi-purpose room in the center of the building.

Woman Takes Donora Office

The first Republican school director in Donora in 20 years was sworn into office last night.

She is Mrs. Rhoda B. Scoville, of 100 Helen Ave.

Mrs. Scoville was appointed recently by the all-Democratic School Board to fill an unexpired term. She will serve until the first Monday of December.

A native of Donora, she has been in civic affairs and is currently secretary of the merchants division of the Donora Chamber of Commerce.

She is the second feminine member of the Board. Mrs. Alden Miller is currently serving a six-year term.

Scores Injured In Philadelphia Subway Scare

PHILADELPHIA (UP)—A transformer exploded in the first car of a Broad Street subway train today and scores of panic-stricken passengers were injured as they plunged through windows of the darkened cars.

A small fire broke out in the motor and transformer insulation, filling the Broad and Erie station in North Philadelphia with dense smoke.

A United Press reporter said the platform and street above ground were splattered with blood as passengers fled to safety.

Temple University Hospital said it treated at least 20 persons; a spokesman at Einstein Medical center said between 30 and 40 persons were being treated there; and 14 persons were given first aid at Women's Medical College Hospital.

All the injured suffered lacerations and shock.

An eyewitness said there was a flash, an explosion, and a second flash before smoke began pouring into the station and out through air vents to the streets above. All the lights on the train went out.

The accident occurred at 8:40 a.m. during the height of the morning rush hour. Forty minutes later the disabled car had been towed away and normal service was resumed. A number of buses were rushed into service to transport stranded workers.

A spokesman for the Philadelphia Transportation Co. said the fire was confined to the underside of the car. At least 10 pieces of fire apparatus were rushed to the scene.

Soil Conservation Better in State

STATE COLLEGE, Pa. (UP)—State Agriculture Secretary William L. Henning said today Pennsylvania made rapid strides in soil conservation during the past two years.

Henning said 18 new soil conservation districts were organized in the state since he took office in January, 1955, of the present total of 48.

Four Engineers Fined for West Newton Speeding

Four of the ten Baltimore and Ohio Railroad engineers arrested last month for allegedly speeding through West Newton have paid $10 fines and costs amounting to $5, it was reported today.

They appeared before Justice of the Peace William Parker, who said that warrants will be issued for the six remaining engineers.

West Newton Police Chief Eugene Lotterio and Patrolman Sam Libbos testified that they clocked the engineers at speeds ranging from 37 to 58 miles per hour.

The borough has a speed limit restricting train speeds to 15 miles per hour. However West Newton officials said they'll permit double that figure.

Engineers who paid their fines contended during their hearings that the speed checks are erroneous, that the borough has no right to regulate their train speeds and that they are the victims of a squabble between the railroad and borough officials.

The B&O has set 0 miles per hour as a safe speed limit for the station curve in West Newton, according to police.

Several crossings in West Newton are unprotected. On Oct. 4, 1955, a tragic train-truck collision claimed five lives and demolished three buildings in downtown West Newton.

Bulbar Polio Takes Lives of Two Persons

PARKERSBURG, W. Va. (UP)—Charles Quest, 25, father of three children who came here Wednesday for his wife's funeral, died in an ambulance Thursday night of bulbar polio.

Quest, of Imperial Beach, Calif., had flown here with the children following the death Monday in California of Beverly Knopp Quest, 25, former Parkersburg television performer. She is to be buried Saturday.

The cause of Mrs. Quest's death was thought to be pneumonia. It is now believed, however, she may have had the same disease that killed her husband.

Quest, formerly of Athens, Ohio, became ill Thursday morning and visited a doctor in the afternoon. He was immediately placed in a portable respirator and started on a trip to Columbus, Ohio, for treatment. He died enroute.

Brickner Expects to Start Swim Tonight

CALAIS, France (Special to the Daily Independent) — Gus Brickner, a 44-year old grandfather from Charleroi, will try to fulfill a life-long ambition tonight at midnight. (7 p.m. Monessen time)

That's when Gus will dive into the cold, choppy English Channel in an effort to swim the rugged crossing.

Brickner, who has been training here for the past three weeks, said he was in good condition and confident of success.

"I have all the confidence in the world," he remarked as he made last-minute preparations for the swim. "That's why I'm going into the water — to swim the channel."

The weather here in Calais has been unseasonably cold. Temperatures ranged between 46 and 65 most of the time during Brickner's training swims.

Heavy winds the past two weeks also whipped up five foot high waves.

Despite those obstacles, Brickner feels his training program has gone according to schedule. He pointed out that he was already in fine shape when he arrived in Europe.

The cold water holds no fear for Gus. As a matter of fact, he's thankful that the temperatures have been lower than usual.

Long noted as a "human polar bear," Gus is particularly fond of cold water swimming.

The "nape" tides moved in to the Mediterranean last night, making the sea full. As a result, the channel calmed.

Jury Trial Bill Passed In Senate

WASHINGTON (UP) — Senate adoption of a heavily-disputed jury trial amendment early today cleared the way for Senate approval within a week of a watered down civil rights bill, the first in eight decades.

Dixie foes of the bill won their second major victory over President Eisenhower shortly after midnight when the Senate approved the controversial amendment by a 51-42 vote.

Threats of a southern filibuster evaporated. Some senators from the South, including Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, now said they would vote for the bill.

It now was essentially a voting rights bill with a provision for jury trial in criminal contempt cases. The Senate last week dealt Eisenhower a first major setback by knocking out a broad provision that would have given the attorney general sweeping injunctive powers in civil rights cases generally.

The only relatively important disputed issue remaining concerned the subpena powers of a proposed bipartisan commission on civil rights. Administration forces have agreed to three concessions on the commission section of the bill.

A coalition of 39 Democrats and 12 Republicans supported the jury trial amendment—the Republicans breaking with Eisenhower who came out strongly against the amendment Wednesday. Opposing it were 33 Republicans and 9 Democrats.

The amendment to the voting rights section of the bill would provide for jury trials in criminal contempt cases where the purpose of a judge was to punish a defendant, such as a registrar of voters, for disobeying an injunction to register a Negro as a voter.

Judge Can Jail

But a federal judge could jail a registar, without a jury trial, for as long as he failed to comply with the injunction.

In an effort to woo votes for the amendment — apparently successfully — its supporters Wednesday accepted a revision that would guarantee Negroes the right to serve on federal juries regardless of state laws which now in effect keep Negroes off many federal juries in the South.

In its present form the bill would (1) create a bipartisan commission on civil rights, (2) provide for a new assistant attorney general to handle civil rights cases, (3) repeal a Reconstruction Period law empowering the President to use troops to enforce Negro rights and (4) authorize the attorney general to seek injunctions to safeguard voting rights of Negroes, with jury trials for criminal violations of such injunctions.

Ailing Senators Appear

The second crucial vote came dramatically shortly after midnight on the 21st day of the Senate's historic debate on the rights bill. Both sides mustered their full strength.

An Air Force plane was flown to Maine to whiz back Sen. Frederick G. Payne (R-Maine) who opposed the amendment. Sen. Thomas C. Hennings (D - Mo.) came back on the Senate floor the first time in a month following an operation. Both voted against the amendment.

Senate Democrats supporting the rights bill joined Vice President Richard M. Nixon in decrying adoption of the amendment.

Nixon called it "one of the saddest days in the history of the Senate." He said it was "a vote against the right to vote."

Sen. Richard B. Russell (D-Ga.), leader of the Senate opposition bloc, hailed the vote as a "victory for constitutional government and the rights of American people everywhere."

Criticizes Statement By Fayette Official

A statement of revised millage rates for Fayette County's taxing districts was described today as "entirely erroneous and presumptuous."

That criticism was offered by John Costello, solicitor for the borough of Belle Vernon, Washington Twp. and the Bellmarette School District.

Costello made his remarks when informed that the Chief County Assessor John Schroyer, had released "tentative millages" for 33 of county's 42 taxing districts.

According to Schroyer, the revised millage rates are part of a new assessment program which has been instituted throughout the state.

In his report, Schroyer listed these "old and new" millages for area taxing districts:

Belle Vernon, 72-33; Fayette City, 69-33; Perryopolis, 63-32; and Washington Twp., 67-24.

However Costello quickly pointed out that the taxing bodies, themselves, set the millage rates. The County has no authority in the matter, the solicitor said.

"Until the new tax assessments are received, these taxing districts are in no position to levy new millage rates," Costello pointed out. "There are other considerations, including mandated expenses which force higher budgets."

Costello added that the new tax millages reported for the district he represents are "entirely erroneous and presumptuous."

Dulles in Personal Plea At Disarmament Parley

Hopes to Break Stalemate Over 'Open Skies' Plan

LONDON (UP) — Secretary of State John Foster Dulles decided to make a personal plea to the London disarmament conference today to break a four-month-old stalemate.

Authoritative sources said Dulles personally would introduce in the five-power U.N. disarmament subcommittee the new open skies plan framed in three days of urgent talks with Britain, France and Canada.

Then he will depart for Washington tonight and leave Harold E. Stassen, regular U.S. disarmament delegate, to explain the plan in detail next week.

Dulles won from the Allies agreement on a comprehensive "accordion" open skies plan — stretching from the Atlantic Ocean to the Soviets' Ural Mountains, if Russia agrees, or a smaller area if Russia balks.

France Balking

But he had failed up to this morning to overcome a sudden French about-face on the size of troop cuts. France was reported balking at the U.S. troop limitation plan on grounds such a ceiling might affect its need to maintain strong fighting forces in North Africa.

Stassen proposed two months ago that Britain and France cut their armies to 650,000 in the last stage of a partial disarmament in which the United States and Russia would cut theirs to 1,700,000.

Dulles met this morning with the American delegation and the four Western powers—the United States, Britain, France and Canada—scheduled a "working lunch" before meeting later in the day with Soviet representative Valerian Zorin.

Dulles, who plans to fly back to Washington tonight, spent two hours in direct consultation with Pineau Thursday before they joined Lloyd and the Canadian representative. But the troop level differences remained, officials said.

Thursday was the deadline set by the U.N. General Assembly for its London subcommittee to report on talks to date. But with Russian consent the report was delayed.

Who Said the Soviet Had no Bureaucracy?

(State Sen. John Crutcher of Hutchinson, Kans., and Jerome Davis, former professor at Yale and Dartmouth, visited Russia last week with a group of American business and professional men. While there they obtained the following amazingly frank interview with Nikita S. Khrushchev.)

By JOHN CRUTCHER and JEROME DAVIS

PARIS (UP) — Nikita Khrushchev said the new program of decentralizing Russian industry had ended a "madhouse" of bureaucracy in which 20 departments in Moscow would control one factory.

The first secretary of the Soviet Communist Party wore a brown business suit and a confident, businesslike manner when we asked him about the new decentralization program.

Until it was put in effect, he said, everything had been controlled by Moscow, and this meant that 20 departments might control one factory.

Lots of Paper Work

"When there was a question raised in a local factory all 20 representatives might have to go back to the far off city to settle it and then come all the way back," he said.

"The result was a vast correspondence and a network of bureaucracy.

"Today there are regional or local economic councils and the administration of industry rests with them and criticism is addressed to them.

"Whereas an administration used to be run from one center, now there are 105 centers or economic councils.

"Each economic center has specialized departments and the head of each one has broad powers to answer all questions arising under him.

"We have freed practically tens of thousands of people from empty paper work and made it possible for them to enter into the productive aspects of the economy.

"Not only are they free but the hundreds of thousands of people who used to read these papers are free from this madhouse too."

Why Molotov Was Ousted

We asked about the recent expulsion of Vyacheslav M. Molotov, Lazar Kaganovich and Georgi Malenkov from the Central Committee of the party.

Khrushchev replied that they had held too long to the old pattern.

"Today conditions have changed," he said. "Our relations with the capitalist world are different than ever before. The colossal changes have to be reflected in our policy and these men opposed progress.

"We will let them remain in the party and work for us, but not in the Central Committee any longer."

a sizeable block of committeemen in his corner and will stir up a lot of action tomorrow. Mahady supporters say their "favorite" also has a large number of committeemen "lined up."

All the candidates are conducting campaigns similar to those on the national political convention scale. Most, if not all, are planning to "entertain" committeemen in reserved suites at the hotel and also at luncheons, all with an eye towards "luring" support.

One committeeman told The Independent:

"I didn't know how important I am. These candidates have really been after me. Before this race came up, most of the candidates wouldn't even bid me the time of day. Now they're falling all over me."

Jay Kromer, county Democratic chairman, stated a "secret" ballot will be used tomorrow. He said the executive body will decide what parliamentary procedure to adopt in the event no candidate receives a majority vote on the first ballot. It has been suggested that the candidate with the least number of votes be dropped in preparation for the second ballot, continuing this procedure until the final ballot.

A large delegation of Monessen Democrats is expected to attend tomorrow's meeting. Chairman William Rapsack and Vice-chairman Olga Contine Lahey will have the Monessen Democratic party's two votes.

Mayor Parente is vacationing in Los Angeles, Calif., and is not expected to be present tomorrow.

Kromer predicts a full turnout of committeemen. They may also be represented by proxy, but party rules require that the proxy reside in the same precinct as the committee member he represents.

Latrobe Plant Protests Vote

LATROBE, Pa. (UP)—Kennametal Inc., has asked that the results of a collective bargaining election at its plants be set aside on grounds the victorious United Auto Workers made misrepresentations.

The request was made to the National Labor Relations Board.

Alex G. McKenna, Kennametal executive vice president, said the UAW newspaper circulated among employes during the campaign maintained the firm's contract with the United Mine Workers had been ruled illegal by the NLRB.

The NLRB specifically stated it would make decision on the validity of the UMW agreement, McKenna said.

George Fights For His Life

VIENNA, Ga. (UP)—Former Sen. Walter F. George, 79, fought stubbornly for his life today in what physicians called the gravest of a succession of crises of his heart ailment.

Dr. M. L. Malloy, his family physician, said the one-time "dean" of the U.S. Senate who retired last January after serving 34 years had reached "the lowest point yet" in his illness.

The influential former chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee afterward was named President Eisenhower's ambassador to NATO.

His condition is becoming "progressively graver," Malloy said after consultation with Dr. J. Willis Hurst, heart specialist and head of the Emory University medical department in Atlanta.

Even Experts Have Trouble with Market

NEW YORK (UP)—What's the stock market going to do?

That's a futile question, say the stock market experts. You might be 100 per cent right on guessing the market trend and 100 per cent wrong in the stocks you buy.

Just now the analysts don't see much reason why the market should go up much. And they are equally convinced it shouldn't go down much.

There is some nervousness around but it isn't being translated into stock market activity, the experts note.

Some are worried over the upcoming investigations on prices which not a few think is nothing more than a witch hunt.

Here and there big stockholders are reported lightening holdings through the use of secondary offerings of stock.

Edmund W. Tabell, analysts for Walston & Co. finds it difficult to figure this market much lower than 501 in the Dow-Jones industrial average.

His technical indicator hasn't given a sell signal although, he adds, a sell signal is possible over the next week or so.

"If it did occur," he says, "it would, in my opinion, be of the whip-sawing variety."

Tabell believes the mariet is in a buying zone on further dips, and adds that some issues look oversold. The trick from here out, he finds, is to make the right selections.

International Statistical Bureau's indicator has given a sell signal. That organization finds nothing dynamic to put the market up at this time, and believes the summer rally may have been seen.

While some of the big stockholders may be selling a few of their holdings this selling urge hasn't touched the general public as yet, Wall Street sources report.

L. O. Hooper, analyst for W.E. Hutton & Co., finds the public still asking for suggestions of things to buy.

He finds brokers complaining from a lack of new ideas to stimulate interest in the market.

"Seasonally," he concludes, "this is hardly a good time to take the pulse of trade; the vacation season is at its peak."

Three Cases of Asiatic Flu In the State

HARRISBURG (UP)—The state Health Department has confirmed reports of three cases of Asiatic flu in Pennsylvania.

The disclosure was made at a meeting of state medical leaders here Thursday called by Health Secretary Berwyn F. Mattison to discuss plans for combating a spreading disease.

Dr. Mattison said he was unable to give details on the three cases reported to date but he understood the patients have recovered.

The group was told that an effective vaccine has been developed by pharmaceutical firms and is being tested on Army personnel before going on the market commercially later this month.

Plans were also discussed for instruction of doctors and nurses, the use of civil defense facilities if required, and the part to be played by the U.S. Public Health Service and the American Medical Association.

Brickner

quickly checked weather forecasts and decided the time was right for Brickner's attempt.

Gus will be led in his swim by a boat which will include the observers, a physician and nurse as well as his trainer.

The distance across the channel from Calais is about 22 miles. However the tricky channel currents often force swimmers to go much further.

The ordinary odds against successfully conquering the channel are about four-to-one for even the most experienced swimmers. Four persons have failed for every successful crosser.

There are many factors against Gus, including the possibility of a storm during his crossing. It has been raining on and off for the past week here.

Then, too, Brickner's age is a big factor in this endurance attempt. However older men than he have conquered the channel.

If Brickner makes it, he will be the first Pennsylvanian ever to do it.

Workers to Testify on Rackets

Conditions Explained To Probers

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Senate Rackets Committee called Puerto Rican workers from New York today to back up its chairman's charge that racketeer Johnny Dio exploited them with "sweetheart" contracts.

Counsel Robert F. Kennedy said the workers would testify about conditions where they worked as members of union locals controlled by Dio, a convicted labor extortionist whose real name is John Dioguardi.

Kennedy said the testimony would cover locals of the AFL United Auto Workers which Dio ran while he was the union's director in New York, and also some of the locals he took into the Teamsters Union to help his friend James R. Hoffa, vice president and candidate for the presidency of the Teamsters.

Hoffa to Appear

Hoffa said in San Francisco the committee has subpenaed him to appear before it Aug. 13. The committee refused to confirm this.

Chairman John L. McClellan (D-Ark.) said in opening the hearings Wednesday that Dio financed his mob from union dues.

McClellan said racketeers sold out union members by signing cooperative employers to easy "sweetheart" contracts which gave the workers little or no benefit.

Kennedy told newsmen the committee has no immediate plans to question two leading figures whose names popped up in Thursday's hearings: Former heavyweight champion Joe Louis and David Dubinsky, president of the International Ladies Garment Workers Union.

McClellan said Thursday Teamster Union members paid the $21.66 hotel bill of Joe Louis, a Negro, when he came to federal court here to greet Hoffa, then on trial on conspiracy - bribery charges.

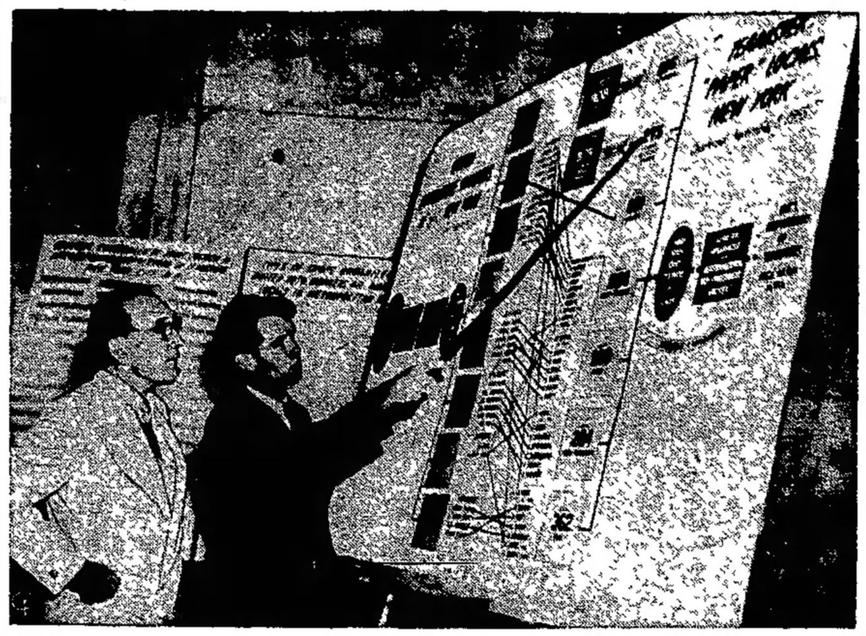
Eight Negroes On Jury

Hoffa was acquitted by a jury that included eight Negroes of charges he planted a spy on the committee staff to steal documents for him.

Lester Washburn, who resigned as president of the UAW-AFL in 1954 after a futile attempt to oust Dio, charged that Dio once worked for Dubinsky's union on a special assignment to organize a plant in Roanoke, Va.

Washburn said Dubinsky, as president of an AFL ethical practices board, demanded that the auto union get rid of Dio but refused to supply facts to use against him.

However, Washburn later said Dubinsky strongly opposed Dio and "was moving heaven and earth for us to get him out of our union."



COMMITTEE CHARGES HOFFA LINKED WITH DIO — Senator John McClellan (left), chairman of the Senate rackets committee, watches chief counsel Robert Kennedy trace, with the aid of charts, the activities of racketeer Johnny Dio in the New York labor market and his relations with Jimmy Hoffa, crown prince of the Teamsters union The investigators charged that Hoffa was linked with hoodlums and Communist agents in trying to get a "strangle hold" over the eastern seaboard.

Charges Shapiro Wants Assembly To 'Look Bad'

HARRISBURG (UP—The chairman of the House Appropriations Committee has charged Welfare Secretary Harry Shapiro urged state mental hospital superintendents not to cut the grass at their institutions to make the Republican controlled Legislature "look bad."

Rep. Norman Wood (R-Lancaster) said the "no grass cutting order was especially ridiculous and exposes what is really behind the so-called economy drive of Secretary Shapiro."

Wood said at most hospitals the patients cut the grass as part of the institution's occupational therapy program at no cost to the state other than the fuel used in power mowers.

"He (Shapiro) wants to have the state institutions under the Welfare Department to have a run down appearance to the public to bolster his unfounded claim that the Legislature, when it increased appropriations to his department by 20 million dollars over what was spent in the past, 'short-changed' the mentally ill," Wood said.

The House Republican leader said he visited a number of mental hospitals and found that most of the complaints were directed against the orders from the Harrisburg office of the Welfare Department rather than the Legislature.

Skill Survey of Workers Planned In Washington

A skill survey of workers in Washington County will begin Aug. 20 at the Charleroi and Washington offices of the Bureau of Employment Security.

The survey was set up this week during a meeting of state and district officials of the Bureau.

The purpose of the survey is to complete a list of the capabilities of the county's unemployed in terms of occupational experience.

Other items will also be explored by the trained interviewers, including hobbies, casual work experience, military experience, aptitudes and full-time work experience.

Findings will be related to work grouping categories for presentation to prospective employers who may be considering the Washington County area as a plant site.

A meeting will be held some time next week to establish a schedule outline for the survey.

Campaign Is Under Way For Speedboat Safety

By FRED T. FERGUSON

NEW YORK (UP)—Three teenagers rammed a rowboat with their speedboat and then tried to run over the smaller boat's 55-year old occupant as he swam desperately for shore.

A teenager was mangled by his own boat's propellor when he fell from the deck of his speedobat. He had been racing with another boat and throwing water at its driver.

These are only two among hundreds of cases of seaway insanity reported this summer.

But incompetence at the helm is by no means limited to youth, authorities emphasize.

A Coast Guard auxiliaryman reported to district Coast Guard headquarters the wisecrack of the wealthy, middle-aged owner of a deluxe cabin cruiser when reprimanded for a "buzzing" incident:

"So tell it to my insurance company."

He had swamped three canoes paddled by young boys from a summer camp. Two of the boys could not swim.

Many Incidents Unreported

Seldom reported are the hundreds of "everyday" capsizings caused by speedboaters who buzz other boats, the Coast Guard says

Officials of the Coast Guard and Coast Guard Auxiliary, the US Power Squadrons, the National Assn. of Engine and Boat Manufacturers, and major boating magazines, along with most experienced yachtsmen, agree on the seriousness of the problem created by buzzers and speeders.

Boating men say that the ranks of the reckless and neghgent boat operators have swollen with the terrific increase in boating since World War II.

"Right now we are collecting statistics on boating accidents," says John M High, chairman of the U.S. Power Squadrons' general safety committee. "By the end of the year we hope to have built up enough examples to stress their real cause."

What has impressed him most, High said, was "a complete disregard of the rules of the road" by the hundreds who have turned from the highways to the waterways.

"It's not the old established yachtsmen we're worrying about," a Coast Guardsman said "It's the people who have never been on a boat before; who get up the 10 per cent down payment to buy one, and who then set out to operate it without even learning how."

Some boating dangers have been fought for years. Among them are fire, engine explosions and lack of safety equipment. They must be faced anew in the boating boom

Skin-Diving a Problem

A Coast Guard petty officer said other dangers have been added. He pointed to recent accidents involving skin divers and water skiers.

The skin-diving problem—often involving inexperienced divers surfacing beneath the propellors of motorboats—appears to be centered on the West Coast.

High said there were fears among Power Squadron officers that water skiing will be a major cause of accidents this year.

"In confined waters you find dozens of skiers all cutting in and out around other boats and each other," he said. "Their towboats often operate in flagrant violation of speed rules in addition to the rules of the road."

Most boating officials agree with the conclusion in Rep. Herbert C. Bonner's report on recreational boating safety to the House Merchant Marine and Fisheries Committee.

Liquor Board Warned Against 'Excess Buying'

HARRISBURG (UP) — State Auditor General Charles C. Smith today warned the state Liquor Control Board to cut down on "excessive buying" or face curtailment of funds.

Smith said on June 1 the board had liquor stock worth $33,577,000 on hand while it owed $32,133,000 to vendors for purchases. He said the practice made the board "hard pressed" for working capital.

"These matters are very serious in that the Liquor Control Board, in order to cover up its inability to meet obligations on time because of excessive buying, is penalizing vendors by forcing them to wait for their money on the one hand, and at the same time giving preferential treatment to others by prompt payment of their bills," he said in letters to Gov. George M. Leader and individual board members.

Smith said excessive buying of whiskies and spirits alone accounted for an inventory of 110,000 cases valued at more than $4,300,000 in warehouses. He said that of the total, $1,500,000 worth of stock was supplied by two vendors.

The Republican official said he would "carefully scrutinize" all purchase orders presented for approval by the board. He said if they exceed a "reasonable quantity" based on normal monthly needs he would reject the orders, insist that inventories be reasonable, insist that vendors were not "intimidated in dealing with the state monopoly system, require all vendors be "treated alike" and determine why some vendors receive large orders for slowly moving items.

Marilyn Monroe Loses Baby; Hospital Patient

NEW YORK (UP) — Actress Marilyn Monroe suffered a miscarriage today and lost her baby nearly eight months before its expected birth.

The 31-year-old actress, who is childless, was rushed 100 miles to Doctors Hospital here Thursday because of the threatened miscarriage. A hospital spokesman said Miss Monroe underwent surgery late Thursday night.

The spokesman said the film star was in great pain during the operation, but was in satisfactory condition. She was given a blood transfusion during the surgery, the spokesman said.

On her admittance to the hospital Thursday afternoon, Miss Monroe's doctor said she was "five or six weeks pregnant" and that her baby was expected "around the end of March"

With her playwright - husband Arthur Miller at her side, the curvaceous screen star was wheeled into the hospital on a stretcher.

The blonde film beauty was expected to be able to leave the hospital in a few days, a hospital spokesman said today.

In Hollywood Thursday, a four-pound boy was born prematurely to singer Rosemary Clooney, the wife of actor-director Jose Ferrer. Both mother and baby were reported in good condition.

Miller, who accompanied his wife on the ambulance trip from their summer home at Amagansett on Long Island, immediately checked into the hospital's hotel section. He said he would remain at the hospital throughout his wife's stay. The playwright, patiently nervous as his wife was brought into the hospital, said he could not recall any incident that may have induced the threatened miscarriage.

Workers at District Plant Back in School

Over 100 employes at the Monongahela plant of Combustion-Engineering Inc., are back in school these days.

They are taking advantage of special math and blue print reading courses currently being sponsored by the company.

The instruction is free to C-E employes. They have only to invest their time.

Each "student" spends two hours a week in the classroom. A total of nine classes are held each week to accommodate the 100 employes enrolled in the school.

Joseph Aglio, an instructor at California High School, is in charge of the C-E classes. He is being assisted by eight foremen; George Chambers, Sam DeSantis, William Pauley, Herman DiGiovanni, Jack Revetta, Walter Berwick, Frank DeSantis, and Frank Hardesty.

The basic math phase of the program has already been completed. At the present time, the classes are studying the fundamentals of orthographic projection.

In the near future, the school will cover alphabet of lines, symbols and abbreviations which are prerequisites of the actual reading of blueprints.

A company spokesman said there is no definite closing date for the current program.

The instructions are designed to prepare the employes for better positions in the firm.

Atlantic Coastal Area in Fourth Month of Damaging Drought

By UNITED PRESS

The nation's Middle Atlantic coast and southern New England, normally an area of good rainfall, today entered the fourth month of a drought which in some sections is the worst in history.

But it is a spotty drought and still a "Pygmy" compared to the eight-year drought recently broken in the great plains states, according to Weather Bureau records.

That will be of slight consolation to farmers in the worst-hit regions. A United Press survey showed the dry weather has been particularly damaging in southeastern Massachusetts, most of Rhode Island, parts of Connecticut and southern New York and in southern New Jersey.

The ground is dry to a depth of 18 to 20 inches in parts of Massachusetts and the Boston weather forecasters say it "would take a hurricane to really soak the ground now."

Corn Hardest Hit

Rhode Island estimates its crop loss at more than 10 million dollars, or one-third that tiny state's annual output. Southern New Jersey had rainfall in May, June and July of 4.39 inches, compared to a normal 12.

Corn has been the crop hardest hit. Farmer Carl Sumers of midstate New York noted the old saying that the corn should be "knee high by the Fourth of July."

"Well, mine was," he says, "but it hasn't grown a bit since then It should be up to my shoulders instead of my knees."

Harry Stahlman, an apple grower in New York's Columbia County with an orchard of 48,000 trees, says the drought is the worst he has seen since 1910. "I'm afraid that unless we get rain soon, apples will wither and drop from the trees," he said.

In some of the mountain areas in northeastern Pennsylvania, trees are beginning to die and the countryside is taking on the appearance of autumn with the foliage already turning golden.

The drought extends south through Delaware and Maryland to Virginia where six counties now have asked the governor to seek federal disaster relief. Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut have applied to President Eisenhower to declare their states disaster areas eligible for federal aid.

One unusual aspect is that water supplies in the large cities have not been drastically affected. In 1949, New York declared "bathless" and "shaveless" days to hoard water. Since then three new reservoirs have been hooked up and the city's supply is at 70 per cent capacity. Philadelphia has asked users to take it easy but has not banned unnecessary use of water.

Rainmakers Losing Out

Another sideline has been a considerable loss of faith in the technique of artificial rain-making. Massachusetts has spent thousands in seeding clouds with sparse results.

Wayne C. Palmer at the Washington office of climatology of the U.S. Weather Bureau says the East Coast drought cannot even be compared with the great plains drought that affected 26 states.

Palmer says the area in which this drought has reached serious proportions is smaller than the state of Oklahoma. It is of short duration and not even breaking many records for the East, he said

The period May 1-Aug. 1 will be about the fifth driest in the last 50 years in the areas around Norfolk, Washington, Baltimore and Boston, he said. At Trenton, N.J., and Providence, R.I., it is the driest in 50 years and at Bridgeport, Conn., about third driest.

The granddaddy of all East Coast droughts was around Baltimore. It began in the year 1863 and lasted through early 1872.

Gus Kelley Doesn't Like the Word 'Mick'

WASHINGTON (UP)—Members of Congress including the Irish agreed today it was an Irishman who threw the overalls in Mrs. Murphy's chowder.

But the lawmakers disagreed on whether it's an insult to the Irish to refer to the guilty party as a "Mick."

Rep. Thomas J. O'Neill (D-Mass.) raised the question Thursday during a hearing before the usually solemn House Rules Committee, called to consider whether to investigate radio-TV networks for editing Stephen Foster's folk songs to take out words such as "darkies" and "massa."

Southerners have raised a clamor about the editing, calling it censorship and a distortion of native American folk music.

O'Neill said if anything should be banned from the air it is the words to the song, "Who threw the overalls in Mrs. Murphy's chowder?" He was particularly concerned about the "insulting" lines.

"It's an Irish trick it's true, and I can lick the Mick who threw, the overalls in Mrs. Murphy's chowder."

A quick check found little support for O'Neill among his Irish colleagues.

Rep. Michael J. Kirwan (D-Ohio) told a reporter he wouldn't worry about being called a Mick —"if that's the worst they're going to call us."

"The Irish are the only people I ever heard sing the song," said Rep. John J. Rooney (D-N.Y.) "I don't think we'd sing it if we thought it was insulting."

Rep. Augustine B. Kelley (D-Pa.) agreed the word Mick was "insulting and offensive."

Informed of O'Neill's complaint about the chowder song Rep. Wayne L Hays (D-Ohio), of predominantly Scotch ancestry, said: "The only one who should be insulted about the overalls is Mrs. Murphy."

The Press Conference Measures the Man

NO OTHER chief of state in the world is subject to the ordeal which the President of the United States undergoes regularly at his press conference. So much is the conference a measure of knowledge, integrity, patience and humor that the man who can pass the test consistently is almost on that score alone qualified for the presidency.

President Eisenhower had a tough one this week. While he bridled understandably at some of the questions, he carried off the occasion with aplomb. The man may have had a heart attack and lost a piece of his stomach, but the head and the spine and still there. Some takes from the conference:

What is his view on the current civil rights bill? He's opposed to any amendment, including the controversial matter of providing jury trial for those violating court orders.

Has he any advice on how to stop smoking? In his own case he stopped outright instead of tapering off. He suggests people who want to stop should leave off pitying themselves.

What chance has anyone told him there is of getting through a mutual security bill? No one has given him a prophecy, but he hopes Congress will stress loans rather than grants.

Considering the newspapers are saying he is worth a million dollars, how does he keep his personal wealth apart from his job? He'll gladly take a million dollars for his holdings, but they are being managed by other persons entirely without his participation as long as he is President.

Since people are saying he didn't plug hard enough for the school aid bill, just where and when does he use his influence in such cases? He tries to win congressional support by talking informally with members and trying to convince them of the logic of his views.

Did he know that his nominee for Ambassador to Ceylon had been a heavy Republican campaign contributor? He did not and he resents any inference that this influenced the appointment.

Does he think the conflict of interest laws as they stand are making it difficult to fill government posts? He admits to some trouble getting the men he wanted for Federal jobs and suggests Congress might review the situation.

How does it come the President has said he wants to allay fears in the world about atomic testing and the Secretary of State has said it is not practical to assure the abolition of nuclear weapons? The President was expressing a hope, the Secretary of State was talking about the realities of today's world.

Any casual newspaper reader will recognize these as hot questions. The President, in fact, was heard to comment on the temperature as he left the room.

In our view the man passes the test and is fit for the office. And as you might expect, this particular freedom of the press is one that we feel should live on.

Partisan Judges

TO BECOME a judge, and yet to keep from being a partisan politician, it's well to be adept at the old shell game.

Attorney Willis Topper, selected by a county committee as one of three Republican judge candidates in Westmoreland county, has exposed the pea in the wrong place.

He's for justice, he announces, irrespective of race, color, creed or political affiliation, and of course no one can disagree with him. However, he also feels that both major political parties are entitled to representation in the courts of Westmoreland county, and since all our judges are members of the Democratic party, reasons Topper, the next one should be a Republican. But oops, that's partisan, isn't it?

We all know judges aren't supposed to dirty themselves in politics. The judges made the rule themselves. Just because we're accustomed to seeing the rule ignored in Westmoreland county doesn't make the abuse any more acceptable.

True, we have all Democratic judges in Westmoreland county. To what extent politics affects the quality of justice and mercy hereabouts in a matter of opinion. Throughout Pennsylvania, however, the term "Westmoreland justice" has an unmistakable meaning, and it's not good.

Johnson Is Besting Foe Bill Knowland

By RAYMOND LAHR

WASHINGTON (UP)—Bill Knowland won the first battles but Lyndon Johnson is winning the war.

These rival party leaders in the Senate have been pitted against one another in every major test since the civil rights bill, which was passed virtually intact by the House, was brought before the Senate.

Knowland, GOP floor leader and commander of a bi-partisan coalition determined to pass a civil rights bill this year, won the opening rounds over procedure. Johnson taped his inconspicuous wounds and moved in to win the bigger battles over the substance of the bill.

After Johnson's climactic midnight victory Thursday night in his fight for a jury-trial amendment, the Senate is now on the verge of passing a civil rights bill for the first time since the Reconstruction years just about as Johnson visualized it would when the battle was joined.

Two Johnson Victories

Forces backed by Johnson have handed two defeats to the President and Knowland, killing a part of the bill that would have given the Justice Department sweeping and somewhat vague powers to get injunctions to protect a broad spectrum of civil rights and winning the jury trial amendment.

It is early to assess the impact of the Senate contest on the political futures of Knowland and Johnson.

Knowland is viewed as a probabe candidate for governor of California next year and, if he wins, for the GOP presidential nomination in 1960. He has stood with the uncompromising supporters of civil rights legislation—in tune with Republican thinking in populous states whose national convention delegations and electoral votes swing great weight in the selection of a president.

Johnson Also a Possibility

Johnson is also regarded as a possible presidential candidate depite his 1955 heart attack, and although he probably does not even know himself wether he will try for the 1960 nomination. His success now could make him a hero to admirers of legislative skill. However, this admiration may not be shared by Democratic National Convention delegates from New York, Illinois and similar states where there is much courting of the Negro vote.

And if Johnson nails down his victory by getting the present bill passed in the Senate Knowland still may have the last word. A much-amended Senate bill goes back to the House, which could accept the Senate version or insist that the differences be settled by a joint conference committee. A bill sent to conference could die there or die later in a Senate filibuster—this year or next.

Johnson crosses one bridge at a time. He has managed to cross two long ones.

Newspaper Ad Helped Jimmy Hoffa

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — How far Hoffa-Teamtser forces went to influence the eight Negro members of the jury which helped acquit the no. 2 boss of the Teamsters is indicated by one of the most amazing advertisements ever to appear in a newspaper during a criminal trial in the nation's capital.

Mr. Pearson

The ad was published July 6, right at the height of the Hoffa trial, by the Washington edition of The Afro-American, leading Negro newspaper of the Atlantic seaboard.

In addition to the full-page ad, The Afro carried a front-page story announcing that a prominent Negro attorney, Mrs. Martha M. Jefferson of Los Angeles, had flown east to join the Hoffa defense counsel. The full-page ad carried a picture of Mrs. Jefferson standing beside Jimmy Hoffa and Edward Bennett Williams, his attorney.

In addition, The Afro published an amazing column by Samuel Hoskins certainly not calculated to alienate the eight Negro jurors. Hoskins noted that Hoffa was being tried before "Her Honor U. S. District Judge Burnita S. Matthews, who hails from the Magnolia State of Mississippi, the same commonwealth which thrust Sir James O. Eastland upon the Democratic Party."

At about the time The Afro-American was published, with copies delivered to the homes of jurors, Judge Matthews confined the Hoffa jury to the courthouse. They were not permitted to see uncensored newspapers.

The Hoskins column also referred to the fact that Senate rackets chairman John McClellan of Arkansas, who brought the bribery charge against Hoffa, had been battling against the civil rights bill in the Senate.

In contrast, Hoskins called Hoffa's trial attorney, Edward Bennett Williams, the "Sir Galahad of the legal arena," and thereafter referred to him as "Sir Williams."

Tallahassee Bus Boycott

The Afro-American publicity in defense of Hoffa coincided with the trip of ex-heavyweight champ Joe Louis to Washington to spend parts of two days in the courtroom as Hoffa's friend. The trip was especially arranged by Paul Dorfman of Chicago, labor racketeer friend of Hoffa, together with the Negro attorney, Truman Gibson. Though it was reported that Louis had come to Washington in connection with his tax troubles, the big, good-natured ex-boxing champ admitted to this column that the trip was entirely arranged by Dorfman and Gibson in order to help out Hoffa.

Negro members of the jury, after acquitting Hoffa, told reporters that their verdict was not influenced by race.

One of the most significant incidents in the Hoffa trial was a question asked of chief government witness John Cye Cheasty by Hoffa's defense counsel as to whether he had used a fictitious identity when he was employed by the city of Tallahassee to investigate the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People during the Tallahassee bus boycott.

Cheasty was not permitted to answer. However, the government then proceeded to turn the question against Hoffa by asking Cheasty to tell what happened in Tallahassee.

Cheasty then told how he had defended Negroes and referred to the "skunks" who beat up "pregnant Negro women." The testimony boomeranged against Hoffa.

It was significant, therefore, that the full-page ad published in The Afro-American dealt largely with this testimony. The ad was signed by "Frank Crowling, director of Detroit citizens' civic committee." Neither this organization nor Frank Crowling is listed in the Detroit telephone directory, and neither is known to Detroit's Negro Congressman, Charles Diggs, nor to other Detroit Congressmen. Furthermore, Detroit City records show no registration for the "Detroit Citizens Civic Committee."

At The Afro-American, this writer was informed that the ad was placed by John Cowling of Detroit. Mr. Cowling, it was learned, is employed by the Wayne County Treasurer and came to Washington during the Hoffa trial to work for Hoffa. He informed The Afro-American that he was a director of the Metropolitan Civic Committee of Detroit. Inquiry among Negro leaders in Detroit disclosed that this organization published the "Democratic Delegates Digest." An attempt to place an ad with the Digest brought the reply that it was printed only just before elections.

Enemy of NAACP

At any rate the full-page ad which Cowling inserted in The Afro-American under the name of Frank Crowling went out of the way to throw mud on government witness Cheasty, while defending Hoffa.

"On one side of the scale of justice," said the ad, "stands a two-fisted direct, uncompromising fighter for labor whose blunt technique in our wildest imagination could never be associated with a cloak and dagger method. On the other side of the scale of justice stands the accuser, John Cye Cheasty . . . who admits he was hired by a committee which was probing Negro schoolteachers and the NAACP.

"Negro citizens of Florida and America are breathing heavily in wonderment of how men like John Cye Cheasty can skip over the nation, securing top employment at will, when our nation is loaded with unemployed lawyers."

References to Cheasty's testimony and the Tallahassee incident were tied into the Hoskins column in The Afro-American. Hoskins told how after the Negro attorney, Mrs. Jefferson, had arrived from Los Angeles, "the firebrand minister from Tallahassee, Florida, Rev. C. K. (bus boycott) Steele emplaned for the return trip south.

"The Reverend Mr. Steele, Florida's edition of Alabama's Rev. Martin Luther King," continued Hoskins, "came to Washington as the result of being subpoenaed to testify as a witness."

To Negro readers this obviously meant that one of the great heroes of the bus boycott movement of the south was on the side of Jimmy Hoffa.

Oman Rebellion May Lead to Big Things

By JOSEPH MORRIS

SHARJA, Trucial Oman (UP)—A little war of great significance is slowly moving toward a climax here on the steamy, palm-fringed shores of the Persian Gulf.

Back in the days when the sun never set on the British flag, it would have been considered nothing more than a tribal dispute and largely ignored. But it is different today because Britain has her back to the economic wall and is fighting desperately to retain what remains of her empire.

No place is more important to Britain than the Arabian area with its massive oil production that keeps Britain's industry going. For this reason, the British are ready to risk a reputation already damaged by the Suez attack to squash a hill country rebel who has a pretty good case for rebelling.

International Implications

He is the Imam Ghaleb who has thrown off the sovereignty and authority of Britain's ally, the Sultan of Muscat and Oman, Said Bin Taimur.

The dispute has international implications. Saudi Arabia's King Saud is supporting the rebels with money and arms. And American oil interests in Saudi Arabia combine to make the issue of concern to the State Department.

What the British fear is that a rebel victory would be such a prestige victory for Saudi Arabia as to endanger and even eliminate British influence in the entire Persian Gulf, leading to the loss of Kuwait whose oil is a bulwark of the British economy.

So far this war has been one more of significance than gunfire.

There hasn't been any ground fighting since the Imam's brother, Talib, suddenly appeared from exile in Saudi Arabia July 15 at the head of a band of 150 well paid and well armed followers.

Car Hits Land Mine

The Sultan's small force at Nizwa in the mountains, a group of barefoot youths led by British mercenaries, immediately hotfooted it toward the coast without even a clash. Three of the Sultan's officials were killed when their car ran over a land mine. The force is now "regrouping."

When word reached the big detachment at Oman, a regiment with a half dozen British officers commanding sent a large patrol up into the mountains where it met stiff resistance including automatic weapons fire. A British officer was nicked in the arm and about a dozen others were wounded in the brief clash.

The rebels rapidly took control of a 100 by 50 mile plateau area and that's where the situation stood until the Royal Air Force was ordered into action.

The Lighter Side—

Better Dressed Dogs Wearing Furs Today

By DOC QUIGG

NEW YORK (UP)— Today let's think some more about mink, with emphasis on its doggy aspects. Some of our better dressed dogs wouldn't be caught dead with a mink coat over their own coat.

Milton Herman, who has expended considerable creative effort on remaking the dog into man's fine-furred friend, says he has decorated around 100 dogs in the last four years with fur coats exactly matching those purchased by their mistresses.

Herman, a fine fur manufacturer and retailer, does about 80 per cent of his business with show people. He believes his most unusual pooch outfitting job was for the miniature French poodle of Lillian Roth, the singer.

Miss Roth purchased, for $7,000, a reversible coat — one side black diamond mink (a very dark brown) and the other side gold lame. The coat had a hood, and so did the dog's.

Dog Coats Expensive

The dog's coat cost only $550, but, as Herman points out, "it was a very small dog." He adds: "There was a lot of labor and detail on it because of the hood. Thrown back, it served the dog as a large collar; worn forward, it covered the head over the ears and up to the eyes."

"We also made a white mink coat for Monique Van Vooren's poodle. We made a pink ermine for a toy poodle to match the coat of Nancy Crompton, the ballerina. Betsy Palmer, the actress, got a ranch mink coat for her dog, and Magda Gabor got two, one ranch and one white mink, to match hers.

"And then we made three big ones, very expensive because this boxer is like a little pony in size, for Martha Raye's boxer — white mink, black diamond mink, and cerulean, to match her three coats."

Prices Vary

Mink dog coat prices range from $100 for tiny ones to $500 for big ones like Miss Raye's (her white mink for the boxer was higher, $850, which set a doggy price record in Herman's shop).

"The dog gets the same treatment as the customer in fitting," Herman says. "We fit it exactly, not like the felt coats you see in stores with straps. We fit the dog so that all we need to keep the coat on is hooks. We make a canvas fitting, then a paper pattern from the canvas, then a fur fitting, and then put the lining in. The dog's lining always matches the customer's lining."

Herman once made a coat for a pet ocelot.

"This was for the Burmese actress Win Min Than, who came here to make a picture with Gary Cooper. She had a cerulean mink coat with a cape collar and we made the same thing for this ocelot. She wrote us later that it caused a big commotion back in Burma."

At the White House—

Ike Assistant Meets Queens

By MERRIMAN SMITH

WASHINGTON (UP) — Backstairs at the White House:

Around the White House, Homer Gruenther bears the imposing title of assistant to the deputy assistant to the President. This means he works for Wilton B. Persons, who is the deputy assistant to the President. THE assistant, of course, is Sherman Adams.

With this complicated identification out of the way, it is possible to report that the amiable Gruenther is known around the executive establishment by some other titles: "Homer, the vegetable man" or "Homer, the king of queens."

These subtitles stem from the fact that Gruenther, brother of the famous general and present head of the American Red Cross, is on the receiving end of numerous delegations that call at the White House.

The delegations come bearing gifts for President Eisenhower, who usually is too occupied with other chores to receive them in person. Lest it set a time-consuming precedent, the White House also does not have the President prayer circle in the year 1888, in the orchard of the home of the late Edward Ody.

On Thursday a surprise going-away party was held for Florence Turchich, who will leave Monday to enter the school of nursing in the St. Francis Hospital, Pittsburgh. The party was given by her cousin Kay Turchich.

A cablegram was received last evening by Mrs. Joseph Young, of Knox Ave., stating that Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Colangel and daughter, Virginia, of Monessen, had arrived safely in Rome, Italy. Mrs. Young and Mrs. Colangel are sisters.

Thus it falls to Homer to gladhand the visiting vegetable and fruit bearers and their respective queens.

In recent weeks, Gruenther has played host to and been photographed with the cheese, citrus, milk, peach, watermelon, vegetable and potato "queens." The cherry queen from Michigan brought in a pie big enough to feed a regiment.

A blueberry queen brought in a load of produce from New Jersey and an Iowa delegation delivered appropriate cuts of choice meat to mark National Steak Week.

Homer also receives quite a quantity of fish in season. The people from Alaska, Oregon and Maine can be counted on for a certain amount of salmon every year. An Indiana delegation brings in a mess of lake perch annually.

There's a big difference between the fruit and berry delegations with their queens, and the fish folks.

"Queens don't come with fish; only congressmen," says Homer.

And what happens to all of these choice edibles brought to the President? They go straight into the White House refrigerator for later consumption by the Eisenhowers and their guests. The ice box must bulge at the seams come berry-picking time and the first run of salmon.

The whale, though a descendant of land animals that were hairy and four-legged, has a naked skin except for a new scattered hairs on the head. The only traces of hind limbs are a few tiny bones hidden at the base of its powerful tail.

Gocella New Leopard Assistant

Rostraver has filled one of two vacancies on its varsity football staff. Laurence R. Gocella, a grid product from Lock Haven State Teachers College, has been hired as an assistant to head coach Wade Bender. Gocella will receive a teaching salary of $3200, plus $300 for his grid duties . . . Incidentally, the Leps may have trouble selecting another football aide. All teaching positions seemed to be filled. That means a coach will have to be picked from the present faculty. There are several qualified men, but none of them has expressed any interest in the job.

* * *

Speaking of Rostraver, some of the School Directors are growing restless over the football situation. "We have a big stadium now and we better get some people in it this season," remarked one influential director during a recent School Board meeting . . . Quite frankly, the football prospects at Rostraver this year do not appear bright. Practically all of last year's disappointing team picked up diplomas last May. The remaining material looks mighty thin except for a promising sophomore crop . . . Still on the Leps, basketball coach George Everett is currently attending summer classes at Lock Haven State Teachers College.

Wildcats Complete Grid Staff

Another valley high school, Monongahela, has completed its coaching staff appointments with the naming of current Redstone High School assistant John Katusa as an aide to MHS head man Al Cree. Katusa played in the backfield for Cree at Carmichaels when Al was turning out those "B" championship squads. In fact Katusa starred in 1948 in a game in which the Class B mikes walloped Class AA Brownsville of the Big Six Conference, 34-13! The new assistant for the Wildcats is a graduate of Mississippi State University. The election of Katusa couldn't have suited Head Coach Cree better — nothing like having a former star pupil as an assistant.

The crowning insult on Monday's heavyweight title fight (?) was supplied yesterday by Tommy "Hurricane" Jackson when he said, upon leaving the hospital, where he had been since taking his beating from Champ Floyd Patterson, "Thank God, I'm still alive." Jackson feeling that way about the outcome of a title bout proves just how silly a match it was. But the worst is apparently yet to come — the Patterson - Rademacher match . . .Speaking of fights, or were we?, the card lined up for Jeannette later this month with local product Buck Henry in one of the bouts is attracting considerable attention throughout the Mon Valley. More on this later.

Testimonial for Jimmy Russell

A long-planned testimonial dinner for Donora grid mentor Jimmy Russell, now in his 27th season as grid boss of the Dragons, will be held on December 28 at Twin Coaches, according to word from Dr. Michael Duda, president of California State Teachers College, former Superintendent of Schools here, and one-time grid aide to Russell, who is general chairman of the banquet committee . . . Local recreation supervisors and the Department of Recreation are singing the praises of Tarmo Lapinmaki, Stadium custodian for his wonderful cooperation during the summer toward the Little League recreational activities. A well-deserved pat-on-the-back for a deserving worker.

Sanford, Kubek Seen Set as Top Rookiees

By OSCAR FRALEY

NEW YORK (UP) — Jack Sanford of the Phillies and Tony Kubek of the Yankees appear today to have Rookie of the Year honors locked up but the rest of the post-season awards still are wide open.

Sanford, the 28-year-old "boy" wonder who finally made the big league grade after 10 years, could emerge from the campaign with more medals than a revolutionary general. If he keeps going, and should the Phillies come on to win the pennant, he might take honors in three departments.

In such a case, the blond New England speedball pitcher conceivably could capture Rookie of the Year, Most Valuable Player and Most Valuable Pitcher honors in a clean sweep.

Sanford, who learned to control his curve ball to post 14 victories to date against only three defeats, apparently will have to top Billy Pierce of the White Sox for pitching honors and Hank Aaron of the Braves for Most Valuable acclaim.

Pierce Close Behind

Pierce, with a 15-7 pitching mark, is Sanford's closest competitor for the Most Valuable Pitcher honors. This bit of business won't be settled until the race is run. Aaron, making a triple crown bid in batting average, homers and runs batted in, is the man Sanford has to best for the Most Valuable Player Award.

Sanford, however, seems far in front of such rookie candidates as first base teammate Ed Bouchee, third - baseman Ed Kasko and pitcher Von McDaniel of the Cards, Dick Drott of the Cubs, Danny McDevitt of the Dodgers and Dick Farrell of the Phils.

Kubek appears far and away the best of an American League rookie crop which does not shape up as strong as the National League group. The six-foot, three-inch 21-year-old is hitting close to the .300 mark and has been a valuable part of the Yankee infield.

MVP To Mantle

In the running against him are such as pitcher Ralph Terry and outfielder Woody Held of Kansas City, Roger Maris of Cleveland, Jim Landis and Bill Fischer of the White Sox and Larry Raines of the Indians.

When it comes to the American League's most valuable race, most baseball observers are inclined to hand the plum to the Yankees' Mickey Mantle without waiting for final results.

Yet, as of the moment, "old man" Ted Williams is making a determined run at him with a hot stick. The odds are that the Yankees will win the pennant and this always is a major factor in final selection of the most valuable player.

Score's Mate Option

CLEVELAND (UP) — Catcher Dick Brown, Herb Score's batterymate at Lake Worth, Fla. High School, was optioned by the Cleveland Indians today to Mobile in the Southern Association. The Indians had brought up Brown from Omaha in the American Association on June 20.

Ozarks Repeat Over West Newton

Cro-Ams Shut Out Hallers

Although held to only four hits, the City Softball-League-leading Cro-Ams made the most of them for a 5-0 blanking of Italian Hall at City Park last night. It was the 13th win against one loss for the Cro-Ams.

Another pitcher's duel featured the game in addition to the hitting exploits of Ernie Lattanzio, Ray Sekoski of Italian Hall and "Stush" Nickolich of the Cro-Ams handled the mound chores, Nickolich giving up six hits and not walking a batter.

There was scoring in only two innings, the first and fifth. The Cro-Ams tallied three times in the initial stanza on a walk to Frank Stancato who repeated the performance twice more during the game, an error, a double by Ernie Lattanzio and a bingle by Dick Saflin.

The two markers in the fifth were plated on a walk, and Lattanzio's homer.

Joe Mancini doubled for Italian Hall's only extra base blow.

The defeat dropped the Hallers into a fifth place tie with the Ravens, both with 5-8 marks.

Tonight the City League card is suspended for the game at Ninth Street Park between the City League All-Stars and the Tri-County League All-Star squad.

City-TCSL All-Star Tilt Here Tonight

It's All-Star time at Ninth Street Park tonight when a stellar softball attraction will be offered local and district fans.

The "cream" of the city and district softball players will battle at 6 o'clock on the local field in what should be a top-notch game between the All-Stars of the Monessen City League and the Tri-County League Stars. A banner crowd is expected to witness the clash.

Rosters of both teams are loaded with the finest players in this valley.

Hitting vs. Pitching

It is expected to be a battle of City League hitting power against brilliant pitching of the Tri-County loop, although the City Stars can boast of a fine hurling staff with the likes of Steve Rockovich, Tony Turcaso, Paul Petrusky, Spencer and Stelio Telegraphis taking the mound against the County squad.

The Tri-County League has some of the finest pitching talent to be found in the district in Art Doty of Monongahela, Tom Standard of Monessen CIO, George Brown of Charleroi and Don Ward of Roscoe.

To Pilot Teams

Ted Nichols and Steve Baker will pilot the County Stars assisted by James Cramer, manager of CIO, and Pat Vadella. Ed Ermlich will be the County Stars' scorekeeper while Roger Sullenberg, Bobby Hamer and Sonny Galliotto have been listed as the TCSL's batboys. Nichols is president of the League. Baker the manager of the Fairhope Firemen entry.

Monessen's City League team is piloted by Chick Lewitsky, of ULBA, Steve Hardoby of Italian Hall and Tom D'Errico of the Ravens.

Starting lineups will not be announced until game time due to so much talent being on hand the managers couldn't decide this morning on the 10 men to take the field for the opening inning.

Four City League umpires will work the game.

Boyd-Vaughn On TV Tonight

NEW YORK (UP) — Middleweight contenders Bobby Boyd and Willie Vaughn meet tonight in a return 10-rounder at little St. Nicholas Arena instead of Madison Square Garden because evangelist Billy Graham extended his Garden stay.

The fight will be televised and broadcast nationally by NBC at 10 p.m. e.d.t.

Boyd of Chicago, rated ninth, seeks his fifth straight victory on the comeback road and his second over Vaughn of Hollywood, Calif., ranked 10th. Bobby won a split verdict over Willie at Chicago, May 15, and he is favored at 8-5 to repeat.

Scott Injured At Heidelberg

PITTSBURGH (UP) — Herb Scott, top stock car racer in the Pittsburgh Racing Assn., was injured only slightly in the feature race at Heidelberg Raceway Thursday night when his car overturned five times and rolled over the guard rail.

Scott was treated for a shoulder injury at Allegheny General Hospital and released.

The accident occurred when Scott, coming out of a turn during the 16th lap, collided with another car.

M-Y Preps Lose, Play Tonight

Mon-Yough's Prep League entry remained in the running for World Series berth in the Munhall classic dropped to the loser's bracket last night in a 5-0 loss to Butler.

Loose fielding by the local squad saw them commit four errors and fail to garner a run although given five hits while Snowden, Tracey and Rechichar were holding the winners to only three hits which they made good to the tune of five markers.

All of the winners' runs were score in the first two innings.

Tonight at 6 o'clock the Mon-Youghs meet Allegheny Valley at Munhall.

Washington also dropped to the losers bracket in the double elimination go with a 3-1 setback at the hands of South Hills.

Johnson Homers Again; Play at Perryopolis Tonight

Posting their second win in two days over West Newton, the improved Monessen Ozarks moved closer to clinching a Mon Valley League playoff berth here last night with an 8-3 victory.

Tonight the Ozarks travel to Perryopolis for what should be a rugged encounter.

Last night, the West Newton nine again threw a scare into the locals when they tallied tiwce in the second inning, held the margin until the bottom of the fourth. In that frame the Oarks rallied for three runs and went ahead to stay.

Manager Pappy Johnson of the local entry, who has clubbed three homers in the last three games did it again against West Newton's Eugene Letterio, a clever southpaw, in the sixth. It was his 11th circuit clout of the season.

Monessen hurler Fuzzy Anderson came through with a neat double in the fourth to drive in two runs and tie the game at 2-2. Mitnick later scored on a wild pitch to take the lead.

Neil Hill, who doubled twice, scored the lone Ozark marker in the fifth as he went to third when Crawley rolled out and scored on a fielder's choice on Tom Rotherman's hit to the short-stop.

West Newton failed to get an extra-base blow off Anderson.

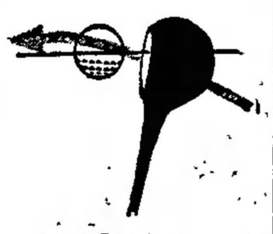
DOCTORING YOUR GOLF

By CARY MIDDLECOFF



How To Hooke

Hooking the ball to get around some intervening obstacle can be accomplished simply if proper preparations are made.

The first step is to alter the grip. Turn the left hand back around to the left. Fix it on the shaft so you will be able to see three and a half knuckles, looking straight down from the position of address. Then turn the right hand more to the left, so that the V's formed by the thumb and first fingers of both hands will form a continuous line to the right shoulder.

The backswing should be started a little inside the line. This will help you come into the ball from the inside out, which is the hooking action. For the golfer's eye-view of this, see today's illustration. As you come into the ball, let the hands roll on over. Finish the shot with the palm of the left and up.

'Porky' Oliver Is Leader in Tam O'Shanter Open

CHICAGO (UP) — Ed "Porky" Oliver, only nine times a winner in 17 years of pro golf, was a first-round front runner in Tam O'Shanter's All American Open today. But 58 challengers were in a threatening position within six strokes.

Oliver, 40, hit every green Thursday and posted 12 pars and six birdies for a 66 total on the par-72, 6,915-yard course. It was his second best round in 11 years in the event, held annually on the same links.

But the performance put him only one stroke ahead of 26-year-old Billy Casper Jr., who was a late finisher with a 67.

Roughly one-third of the field of 161 men pros was in striking distance today. Veteran Sam Snead, Shelley Mayfield, Tommy Bolt, and a former National Junior champion, Gay Brewer, were only one stroke behind Casper at 68. Eight more players posted 69s.

There were nine players with 70 and 15 at 71, for a total of 38 par - breakers for the first 18 holes. Twenty-one players equaled par.

Par suffered at the hands of the women, too, and the leading women pros, Beverly Hanson, Indio, Calif., and ay FCrocker, Uruguay, each posted a five - under 71. They were three strokes ahead of three challengers, Kathy Cornelius, Jo Ann Prentice and Jacqueline Pung, but three other women pros also bettered par with 75s.

The leading woman amateur, young Clifford Ann Creed, also knocked one stroke off par with a 75 for a four-stroke lead on the field. The leading men amateurs, Howard Everitt and Bob Pratt, bettered par by one stroke, too, with 71s for a two-stroke margin.

Wins USAF Golf Title

FRANKFURT, Germany (UP)— M-Sgt. Harold Ridgley of Havertown, Pa., Thursday won the U.S. Air Force European golf championship when he carded a two-under-par 70 to win the 72 - hole tournament with a 293. Ridgley won the German Amateur crown on July 18 at Cologne.

Stan Paces Cards to Top Spot

The Man Ahead of Cobb Mark

By MILTON RICHMAN

Stan Musial passed Ty Cobb today and the St. Louis Cardinals entered into the spirit of the occasion by passing Milwaukee to take over the National League lead.

All this passing was accomplished when the Cardinals defeated the Giants, 8-0, Thursday night to take over first place by two percentage points over the idle Braves.

The 36-year-old Musial supplied most of the impetus with a perfect night at the plate that included a pair of two-run homers and two singles.

Stan the Man passed Cobb with his second homer of the game in the sixth inning. The blow, his 24th circuit of the season, was the 1,140th extra base hit of his career and put him in third place ahead of the Georgia Peach in that department. Only Babe Ruth, with 1,356 extra base hits, and Lou Gehrig, with 1,190, are ahead of Musial.

Sam Jones limited the Giants to six hits in registering his ninth victory. It was the Cards' sixth straight win.

Senators Edge Chisox

In the only other National League games scheduled, Cincinnati nipped Philadelphia, 4-3, and Brooklyn mauled Chicago, 12-3. Detroit defeated Boston, 7-5, and Washington beat the White Sox, 5-4, in the only two American League games scheduled.

The Redlegs beat the Phillies with a three-run rally in the eighth inning. Until the eighth, southpaw Curt Simmons had a 3-1 lead, built with the help of homers by Stan Lopata and Rip Repulski. Johnny Klippstein was the winner in relief of Brooks Lawrence.

Gil Hodges of the Dodgers set a National League record with the 13th grand slam homer of his career as Brooklyn rapped out 18 hits and took advantage of six Cub errors. Hodges' grand slam wallop off Dick Littlefield enabled him to pass Rogers Hornsby and Ralph Kiner, who held the previous record of 12 grand slam home runs.

Sandy Koufax checked the Cubs on four hits while striking out 11. Ernie Banks' three-run homer in the fourth accounted for all Chicago's runs.

Rally Falls Short

The Tigers had to call on Frank Lary to stem a four - run, ninth-inning rally after Frank Malzone belted a three-run homer off Duke Maas. Harry Byrd relieved Maas and yielded two more singles but then Lary took over and got Norm Zauchin to hit into a double play, after which he struck out Ted Lepcio for the final out.

Boston starter Mike Fornieles, was the loser.

The Senators spotted the White Sox an early four - run lead and then came back to win at the expense of rookie Bill Fischer. Larry Doby put the White Sox ahead with a grand slam homer in the fourth inning but Washington tied the score on Roy Sievers' 28th homer with one on in the sixth. Sievers' homer finished Jack Harshman and brought in Fischer, who gave up the deciding run on a double by Art Schult, a sacrifice and Milt Bolling's single.

Southpaw Chuck Stobbs was credited with his fifth victory, holding the White Sox to four hits in eight innings before yielding to Tru Clevenger, who gave up another hit in the ninth. The loss dropped the second - place White Sox four games behind the pace-setting Yankees.

Kurey, Baker, Howski Post Tennis Wins

Joe Kurey, Jim Baker and Tony Howski copped victories in the Monessen City Tennis Tournament at City Park yesterday, in men's singles play.

Kurey bested Chal Thompson, 6-4, 4-6, 6-2, Baker topped Ron D'Angelo, 6-2, 6-1 and Howski defeated John Musial, 6-3, 6-1.

Semi-final matches have been set for tonight as follows: Buzzy Silko vs. Kurey; Baker vs Howski.

The finals have been set for Sunday afternoon in the men's singles and Monday evening play will get underway in the men's doubles.

Action will continue in the tournament until all eight classifications have completed their cards, both in the boy's, girl's, men's and women's classes.

Awards will be presented the winners by Thomas McKee American Legion Post 28, co-sponsors along with the City Recreation Department of the tennis classic.

Lucille Musial is supervising the matches assisted by a committee of Post 28 and Recreation Department supervisors.

Miteff Jumped To 10th Rating

NEW YORK (UP) — The Ring Magazine today hopefully boosted unbeaten young Alex Miteff of Argentina into the top 10 ratings among the "poorest" heavyweight group in years.

Twenty-two-year-old Miteff, with 11 straight victories under his belt, was rated 10th, below "the poorest consignment that has appeared in international heavyweight selections in many years."

Eddie Machen of San Francisco replaced Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson as top contender because of Jackson's lopsided beating and TKO by champion Floyd Patterson. Jackson sank to No. 2.

Light heavyweight champion Archie Moore was dropped from the heavyweight ratings as he prepares, at last, to defend his 175-pound crown against Tony Anthony. Zora Folley of Phoenix, Ariz., replaced Moore at third rung among the heavies.

Braves Move Into First-Place Tie

Scoring in every inning but the third the Braves moved into a first-place in the Minor League yesterday with a 13-3 win over the Yankees.

Richard Albert fanned 10 batters for the second game in succession after relieving Danny Proch in the first but it wasn't enough as Danny Cosner fashioned a five-hitter for the winners. Cosner also tripled to aide his own cause but ironically enough only one other extra base blow was struck, a triple by Tommy Pushcar of the Yankees.

Action continues today with the White Sox battling the Pirates.

Blackhawks Jump Prep League Lead

The Blackhawks increased their hold on first base in the Prep League with a 7-2 win over the White Sox yesterday behind the fine hurling of Richard Kuhar.

Young Kuhar fanned 11 batters in a seven-hit effort. Dennis O'Toole tossed five-hit ball for the losers and Bill Malinchak and John McNavage checked in with a triple and double for the Sox but even all this couldn't overtake the determined 'Hawks.

The regular schedule will prevail today and Monday in the Prep League but Tuesday the playoffs open with the fourth and third place "finishers" meeting. Wednesday the 2nd placers will meet the winner of Tuesday's match. Following a day off for Knot-hole Day Thursday the winner of Wednesday's game will battle the "first-placers" for the title.

Ol' Satch May Lead Miami to IL Pennant

By UNITED PRESS

Satchel Paige, possessing a glittering ERA of 2.90 and as many pitches as he has birthdates, appears to be the spring that will catapult the improving Miami Marlins into the International League playoffs.

The legendary right hander choked off a seventh-inning Buffalo rally and went on to hurl two scoreless relief frames to give Miami an 8-6 Thursday night triumph over the league-leading Bisons. Paige's seventh victory kept the Marlins within 1½ games of fourth-place Rochester.

Buffalo eked by Miami, 7-6, in a completion of a July 30 suspended game, Thursday night. In other action Jim Gentile's three-run homer and the five-hit pitching of Jackie Collum gave Montreal a 3-0 triumph over Columbus. Rochester slugged four Havana pitchers for a 13-3 victory, and a three-run eighth, iced a 7-3 Toronto drubbing of second-place Richmond.

Bob Blaylock became the third successive Rochester pitcher to go the distance while his mates pounded out 21 hits off the offerings of Havana starter - loser Pat Scantlebury, Jose Santiago, Jose Heard and Manny Cueche.

Wightman Cup In Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH (UP)—The Wightman Cup was on display here today in preparation for the world famed matches which will be played at the suburban Edgeworth Club August 10-11.

The cup is awarded to the American or British team which scores the most points in the two-day competition between women amateurs of the two countries.

The trophy was donated by Mrs. Hazel Hotchkiss Wightman, former U.S. women's champion, in 1923.

Since 1931, American teams have scored 29 victories against four defeats.

Bruton Begins 'Deejay' Career

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UP)—Billy Bruton, the Milwaukee Braves regular center fielder who is currently on the National League disabled list, got set to face a new career challenge today—the microphone.

The outfielder, who is one of the fastest in the majors when he's running, will walk on crutches into a radio station announcer's booth early Sunday morning to be the disc jockey for a new program of spiritual music. He is recovering from a knee injury suffered last month in a collision with infielder Felix Mantilla.

Bucs-Cubs Resume 'Battle of Cellar'; Bragan Fined, Warned

CHICAGO (UP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates meet Chicago today in a renewal of their "battle of the cellar."

Going into the game, Pittsburgh has a two game lead over the last place Cubs who have been matching the plentiful Pittsburgh losses with an equal amount of their own. All in all, the Cubs seem reluctant to move out of the cellar, but the Bucs may give them a fight for it.

Scheduled to pitch for Pittsburgh in the first of a series of four day games is Vernon Law (7-5) who will be matched against Dick Drott (9-9).

Gets Night Off

The Pirates had a night off Thursday after arriving here about 1:45 a.m. Thursday. Manager Bobby Bragan announced there would be no curfew.

The Pirate manager later in the day was slapped with a $100 fine for the affair in Milwaukee Wednesday night when he walked on to the field and offered orange juice to the umpires.

With the relatively light fine, however, came a stiff reprimand from National League President Warren Giles.

"We and others consider it (baseball) a serious business and to be conducted as such. I will not tolerate antics such as you have engaged in," Giles said in a telegram to Bragan.

Bragan described the stunt as "my major league debut as a clown."

Harness Race Outdraws Both Giants, Dodgers

WESTBURY, N.Y. (UP)—If the New York Giants and Brooklyn Dodgers needed new reasons for leaving New York today they could always point to the crowd of 42,673 that turned out Thursday night for plush Roosevelt Raceway's opening program.

The crowd, the largest ever to watch a harness racing program, topped by plenty the biggest turnout thus far this season at either the Polo Grounds or Ebbets Field. Only four Yankee Stadium crowds this season topped the Roosevelt figure and the Yankees generally are regarded as New York's best drawing card of any sort.

The Roosevelt has been completely rebuilt at a cost of 20 million dollars.

Senators Sign Black

WASHINGTON (UP) — Joe Black, relief pitching hero of the 1952 Brooklyn Dodgers, was signed as a free agent Thursday by the Washington Senators on the recommendation of front-office specialist Chuck Dressen. The Senators dropped Jim Heise to their Chattanooga farm club in the Southern Association to make room for Black.

Eight NFL Owners Back Bell on Player Assn.

By TOM NELSON

WASHINGTON (UP) — Commissioner Bert Bell's recognition of the National Football League's Player Assn. was backed today by eight of the 10 owners required to approve the action.

Bell's action also appeared to clear the way for friendly congressional legislation for pro football when subcommittee Chairman Emanuel Celler (D-N.Y.) said he is "willing to modify my views" on anti-trust regulation of the sport as a result of the testimony he has heard.

The committee has not scheduled any hearing for today but is expected to begin an inquiry into basketball next week.

George Preston Marshall, president of the Washington Redskins, led the minority group of owners who either opposed or refused to accept in toto Bell's action. Marshall said he doubted Bell had the authority to recognize the association.

Creighton E. Miller, lawyer for the Players' Assn., said he believed Bell was speaking for the whole league but that testimony by George Halas, owner of the Chicago Bears, raised some doubts.

Halas said he supported Bell's action with the qualification that each club have a player representative in the association. Halas' Bears do not have a representative.

Bell, the little gamecock who has helped build up the NFL's popularity and prestige, told newsmen he spoke for the whole league and had the power to do so under the constitution. He said no club "could overturn the decision." Bell added he was ready to open negotiations immediately on such things as minimum pay and working conditions.

The owners who backed Bell without reservation were Art Rooney of the Pittsburgh Steelers, Jack Mara of the New York Giants, Frank McNamee of the Philadelphia Eagles, Tony Morabito of the San Francisco Forty-Niners, Walter Wolfner of the Chicago Cardinals, Pete Rozelle of the Los Angeles Rams, Edwin J. Anderson of the Detroit Lions and Carroll Rosenbloom of the Baltimore Colts.

Olive Branch Church S. S. Class is Honored

The Rev. Henry Frank, pastor of Olive Branch Baptist Church, has received word that the church is to be honored by its denomination at a special recognition service.

The church has been informed by the Baptist National Board of Education and Publication that it has earned outstanding recogniton as a Sunday Church School of the American Baptist Convention. In recognition thereof, a bronze plaque will be presented to the church in a special service to be held on Sunday. The plaque will be presented by the Rev. Joseph King selected to act on behalf of the American Baptist Convention.

This recognition comes to the church because it has earned goals of the standard of achievement for Church Sunday Schools of the American Baptist Convention. Under the standard of achievement, twelve goals are set up and only those schools which achieve 10, 11, or 12 goals are eligible to receive the plaque emblematic of denomination-wide recognition.

It should be noted that only a limited number among the thousands of Sunday church schools in the American Baptist Convention are receiving this coveted recognition.

Mr. Frank, in speaking of the coming presentation, said,

"The members of our Sunday Church School, and especially the teachers, officers, and members of the achievement committee are to be commended for their work and devotion. Our Church is deeply grateful to those who have served so faithfully and for the high honor which comes from our denomination."

Soviet Union Has Its Own Marilyn Monroe

By COLETTE BLACKMOORE

MOSCOW (UP)— People in Moscow with an eye for blondes and a smattering of knowledge of American movies say that Marilyn Monroe bears a striking resemblance to Irina Skobtseva.

Some even go so far as to say that Marilyn is the Irina Skobtseva of Hollywood.

The Russians, it seems, have finally got around to turning out not only sleek tractors but streamlined women and Miss Skobtseva is a prize example.

She is about 5-feet 4-inches, with a slender but well curved figure (no statistics), a delicate oval face, upswept reddish-blonde hair, blue gray eyes, a quick smile and a soft voice.

Typical Hollywood Start

So far as is known Irina has never posed for calendars, but she had a typical Hollywood rise to stardom. At the premier of a Japanese film in Moscow several years ago, Russia's outstanding director, Serge Yutkevich, spotted the blonde girl in the audience and, according to local press agents, turned to a companion and said:

"That girl is going to play Desdemona for me."

A few days later she was at Mosfilm Studios to try out for a bit part and ran into Yutkevich.

"How did you know I wanted to see you?" he exclaimed.

And so, with the great director's help, she got the part in the lush color production of "Othello" and was on her way.

She was the Soviet Union's choice for the Cannes Film Festival this year. Through an interpreter she talked with some of the American stars and, in true movie queen fashion, described Kim Novak and Ginger Rogers as "very sweet."

Irina has starred in four films since "Othello." She thinks her most recent, "The Duel," is her best.

Plays Favorite Role

"I play an emotional, Gypsy-like girl who is drawn into a tragedy," she said. "This is the kind of role I like."

But she says she would like to try musical comedy now.

Irina is amused by her comparisons to Marilyn.

"It happens all the time," she said. "When I was in Damascus for another film festival, someone in the marketplace cried out 'there is Marilyn Monroe.' and imagine, I haven't even met her or seen her act."

Irina lives in a Moscow apartment with her mother and father and, as is usual in Russia, her private life is a closed book to all but her closest friends. She gets heavy fan mail but her admirers don't know who she is dating, whether she is in love, what her hobby is or what the inside of her home looks like.

Strange Things From Mixing of Water, Electricity

TULSA, Okla. (UP) — Things have become rather quiet around the Wilkinson home lately. The vacuum cleaner doesn't stroll around the house these nights.

In fact, a lot of weird things went on before C. A. Wilkinson dug up and disconnected a water pipe beside his frame house and removed the ground wire on the electrical lines.

Things were really jumping before Wilkinson put a stop to them.

Electric plugs popped out of wall sockets with such force the prongs were twisted.

Light bulbs leaped from their sockets.

A new $1,300 electric organ which wasn't even plugged in was ruined.

The electric vacuum often crept through the house, moving apparently under its own power. Mrs Wilkinson said one night her daughter burst into her room and complained the sweeper was crawling across her stomach.

Mrs. Wilkinson said she went to check and found the footloose sweeper sitting on the bed.

Wilkinson said he thought it had something to do with a magnetic field.

Age 103, but Likes His Beer Any Time

HUDDERSFIELD, England (UP) — William G. Malbert is usually the first at the local pub and the last man there at closing time.

But today, in honor of his 103rd birthday, he stayed at home to sip his pint of beer and offered the same to all neighbors who dropped in.

"If I have a secret of how to live to old age, this is it," he said, downing a bottle of the cool amber-colored brew in four easy swallows.

"I like my beer at any hour of the day."

Florida Pastor at Church on Sunday

The Rev. Ira G. Howard, who serves a pastorate in Englewood, Fla. and is on vacation from his duties will supply the pulpit at the First Presbyterian Church of Belle Vernon on Sunday.

Mr. Howard and his wife and two children are visiting with his father, Ira G. Howard, of Charleroi R. D., and with other district relatives.

The church is without the services of a pastor. The Rev. S George Clarke left July 1 for his new charge in Florida, and a guest pastor served all last month.

Has His Troubles

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UP) — Ronald Adkins' 1950 model car just wouldn't cooperate when he tried to stop at a crossing for a train. When Adkins put on the brakes, they failed. When he threw the car into gear, it stopped in the middle of the tracks. When he tried to accelerate, the engine flooded. Adkins jumped clear just before the train rammed his car and threw it 60 yards down the track.

Clergymen Are Disappointed with Results of 'Electronic Evangelism'

By LOUIS CASSELS

WASHINGTON (UP) — Religious leaders are being forced to reappraise the bright hopes they once held for reaching America's unchurched millions through television and radio.

Realistic clergymen admit to growing disappointment with the results of "electronic evangelism." With a few notable exceptions — such as the programs of Bishop Fulton J. Sheen and Billy Graham's "Hour of Decision" — audience surveys show that getting people to tune in a religious broadcast is almost as difficult as getting them to attend church.

Equally discouraging to churchmen is evidence that religious broadcasts are relatively ineffective in winning converts, even among those who listen to them regularly. One survey of 3,559 families, sponsored by the National Council of Churches, turned up only one person who said he was converted through the direct influence of a television program.

Officials of major denominations are now taking a hard second look at the whole field of religious broadcasting, in an effort to find out where the trouble lies.

Can Stand Improvement

The first conclusion they have reached is that the quality of most religious programs can stand a great deal of improvement. "There has been a tendency to substitute pious intentions for professional skill in producing religious broadcasts;" said one official. "Churches cannot expect to hold their own in the highly competitive struggle for television audiences simply by labelling a broadcast religious and asking people to watch it out of a sense of duty."

Dr. Ralph W. Sockman, New York Methodist minister whose "National Radio Pulpit" sermons are broadcast over 100 NBC stations each Sunday morning, told the United Press that "religion has not yet found out quite how to use" mass communications media, particularly TV.

Sockman, who is pastor of Christ Church on Park Avenue, said he has learned in 30 years of broadcasting that delivering an effective sermon by radio is much more difficult than preaching from a pulpit to a congregation.

"You have to use colorful words, words that the listener can 'see' in his mind," he said in an interview. "You must avoid long abstract discussions, and put in frequent light touches.

But no matter how hard you try to make the sermon interesting, 15 minutes is about as long as you can hold an invisible audience."

Futile Form Of Evangelism

Simply putting a regular church service on the air—the type of program which takes up a large proportion of all broadcast time allocated to religion—is, in Sockman's opinion, a largely futile form of evangelism. Such a broadcast, he feels, may be welcomed by shut-ins who would like to attend church in person if they could, but it is not likely to woo many potential converts away from the Sunday papers.

In an effort to develop a different kind of religious broadcast that will appeal to the millions who never attend church, the Broadcasting and Film Commission of the National Council of Churches has been experimenting with several types of programs. It has produced dramatic shows with underlying spiritual themes; panel programs in which newspapermen interview church officials on controversial subjects; and "man to man" talks by articulate clergymen on specific problems of everyday living.

MERLE'S NEW MR. — Merle Oberon of screen fame and her new husband, Italian-born financier and industrialist Bruno Pagliai of Mexico City, pose in Rome following their marriage. Then they left for a yachting honeymoon among the Greek islands of Mediterranean. They will live in Mexico City.

Republic Steel Has New Process

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UP)—Republic Steel Corp. today disclosed details of a new iron ore direct reduction process which could possibly eliminate the blast furnace from the steel-making business.

The process was made public in an announcement of the formation of the R-N Corp., owned equally by Republic Steel and National Lead Co. which have been conducting experiments on iron ore for two years.

Republic said that the reduction process is carried out at a kiln located near its Spauling mine here. Metallic iron briquettes are made which can be used directly in open hearth, electric and cupola furnaces, without being processed through a blast furnace.

On Banking Board

HARRISBURG (UP) — Gov. George M. Leader today announced the appointment of James B. Grieves, executive vice president of the Butler Savings and Trust Co., to the state Banking Board.

Dr. S. Franklin Mack, executive head of the commission, believes that an indirect approach — such as a dramatic show which heightens an awareness of ultimate values in life — may be far more effective in securing a religious response among the unchurched than an explicitly religious broadcast, such as a sermon.

"For the non-Christian, or the careless, indifferent Christian," he said, "our aim should be to stab awake, to disturb complacency, to create tensions that can be resolved only by moving toward Christ and the church."

4-H Club Holds Third Project Meeting Here

The Perryopolis 4-H Club held its third project meeting recently in the home economics room at the High School.

After Secretary Cindy Leply completed the reading of the minutes, Miss Paul, county extension leader, spoke of the 4-H Club picnic and Club Roundup held recently.

The Queen's Court and candlelight service featured the Roundup.

Kathleen Swartz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Swartz, of Perryopolis, was selected to represent the Queen's Court, while Toni Griglak participated in the candlelight service.

A lunch was prepared by the girls and served in buffet style. Mrs. Imogene Forrest and Mrs. James Swartz are counsellors for the club.

Three Perryopolis district families are announcing births: a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Donald Conn of Perryopolis R. D.; a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Michael J. Grego, of Perryopolis; and a son to Mr. and Mrs. George Flint, of Star Junction, all in Connellsville Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Pirilla and children, Skippy, Brian, Kathleen and Pamela, of Perryopolis, spent several days at Wildwood, N. J., recently. While there they visited Atlantic City and attended the Ice Capades. En route home, they toured Valley Forge and, Hershey, Pa.

Mrs. Edna Hagerty of Uniontown, visited recently at the home of Mrs. Lula Brewer, of Perryopolis R. D.

Mrs. Delores McKee and two daughters, Diane and Nancy, are visiting friends and relatives in New York.

Godla Sons Are Honored at Party

Gregg and Gary Godla, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Godla, of Perryopolis, played host to several of their friends at a wiener roast held recently to celebrate their birthdays.

Gregg was three on July 28 while Gary was seven on July 24.

A large birthday cake adorned the picnic table in the garden of their home.

Games were played and prizes were won by Jimmy Workman and Michael Kosisky, of Perryopolis, and Steve Kurylo, Monessen.

Others attending the party were Curtis Buttermore, Dennis Chaw, Joel Rebovich and Bill Duff, all of Perryopolis.

Janet Rae Kurylo, of Monessen, helped to serve.

Cub Scouts Form Baseball Team

The Cub Scouts of Perryopolis and Star Junction met recently at the Harold Sager home to organize a Little League baseball team.

The fathers attended the meeting and made plans to purchase equipment for the boys.

Miss Jude Porter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Porter of Perryopolis, is spending a month's vacation at her home here. Judy, a graduate of Perry-Lower Tyrone High School, is employed in the state of California.

Michael Kosisky, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Kosisky Jr., of Perryopolis, received his first Holy Communion on July 28 at St. Timothy's R. C. Church in Smithton. He was one of 29 boys in the class.

Mr. and Mrs. John Barnes and daughter, Adena, and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Nichelson, and their daughter, Louise, of Perryopolis R. D., are spending a week at Virginia Beach, Va.

Glider Pilot Is Closed in by Herd of Cows

LANDBOURNE, England (UP) — Ben Lastowski, 44, a former Polish pilot, put his red painted glider down in the middle of a herd of cows Thursday and spent the next two hours fighting them off.

Lastowski, who lives in London and was a Polish free forces parachutist during the war, was taking part in Britain's national gliding championships.

The herd, led by a big bull, was grazing peacefully when he set down in the middle of the pasture. Then the bull saw the color of the plane and charged.

The cows stared vacantly for a few minutes, slowly surrounded the glider and began to move in.

When he returned the cows were contentedly licking the glider.

"I just sat down and waited for the cows to go home," he said.

His retrieving crew gave the glider a thorough washdown and said it wasn't damaged.

Opera Concert Cancelled by Tomato Threat

ATHENS, Greece (UP)—A concert by opera star Maria Callas was cancelled here Thursday night because some members of the audience were reported ready to shower the stage with tomatoes.

The Athens Festival announced the cancellation less than an hour before the curtain was due to rise, saying the fiery singer was suffering from a sore throat.

It was believed police had refused to guarantee order because of reports that Miss Callas would be booed and chased from the stage by tomatoes.

There has been widespread criticism of the singer here for accepting a $9,000 fee for two concerts. Newspaper critics also carried reports she allegedly refused to give financial aid to her mother.

Senators to Test Fish; Settle Feud

WASHINGTON (UP) — Hungry statesman and reporters next week will settle a feud between Sens. Estes Kefauver (D - Tenn.) and John A. Carroll (D - Colo.) over which tastes better: the Tennessee blue catfish or the Colorado mountain trout.

Kefauver announced today he and Carroll have agreed to let the entire Senate and Capitol press corps judge the gustatorial merits of the catfish and trout. The judges will make their decision after filling themselves with free fish at a catfish lunch Wednesday and a trout lunch Friday in the Senate dining room.

26 Die as Flu Sweeps Chile

SANTIAGO, Chile (UP)—Twenty-six persons have died so far as a result of the flu epidemic sweeping Chile, the government said today.

Dr. Manuel de Viado, of the Bacteriological Institute, estimated that 500,000 Chileans were infected with the disease. The epidemic has closed 90 per cent of the schools and disrupted about 50 per cent of business activities.

Solved Problem, Took Off Trunks

ESKILTUNA, Sweden (UP) — Three members of a West German water polo team refused to let daytime stand between them.

They seemed to be having trouble with badly-fitting swim trunks during an exhibition match here Wednesday and solved the problem by taking them off and continuing the game without them.

Spectators, shocked at first, recovered to cheer lustily when the Germans, behind at the time, won the game, 5-3.

Monessen Men Will Conduct Fire School

Two Monessen men will be in charge of the 23rd annual Western Pennsylvania Firemen's Training Institute at California Teachers College from Aug. 19 through Aug. 23.

Thomas J. Gouger, third captain of Monessen's No. 1 Department, will be general chairman for the institute. His co-chairman will be the city's municipal fire chief, W. Roy McShaffrey.

The school, sponsored by the Western Pennsylvania Chiefs and Assistant Chiefs Association, is expected to attract more than 400 district firemen.

There will be instructions and demonstrations in 17 different subjects during the five-day institute. Morning and afternoon sessions will be conducted daily, with an evening session planned for Friday.

The topics will range from use of regular fire-fighting equipment to arson and sabotage, fire hazards of atomic energy laws for firemen and the use of fire department radio communications.

Assisting Gouger and McShaffrey will be:

John Colditz, Allenport; J. A. Matheny, Uniontown; John Byrne, Brownsville; William Pelzer, Greensboro; Dave Moody, Charleroi; F. E. Coatsworth, California; Harold Lynn, South Connellsville; Rex Messmore, Uniontown.

Robert Whitelaw, North Belle Vernon; J. Clyde Rohland, Brownville; R. Clovis Wright, Waynesburg; Harold Gregory, California; August Chambon, Donora; Harry Dupont, North Braddock; and Herbert DeBolt, Masontown.

Serving on the advisory committee are Dr. Michael J. Dodda, president of California State Teachers College; Stephen P. Adley, chief of Pittsburgh Fire Bureau; and Art Espey, supervisor of Pennsylvania Fire School, Lewistown. Honorary director is Joseph P. Fay, battalion chief of Pittsburgh Fire Bureau.

All firemen, whether they are paid, volunteer, industrial or civilian defense, are invited to attend. The cost of enrollment is one dollar.

The first session will be held Monday, Aug. 19, at 9 a. m. The institute will continue through Friday night, Aug. 23, when there will be a demonstration of tank truck fires, a class for fire department radio operation and a general assembly.

U. S. Warned Of Possibility Of Flu Epidemic

WASHINGTON (UP)—The government pushed a vigorous campaign today to cope with the strong probability of a nationwide epidemic of oriental flu this coming fall and winter.

U.S. Surgeon General Leroy E. Burney gave it to the public straight Thursday.

A widespread outbreak of the new highly - contagious flu, which has been sweeping Asia and spreading over the world, is a "very definite probability" for the United States when cold weather comes.

A vaccine is being mass produced to fight it. But Burney said there will not be enough time to produce and administer sufficient vaccine to immunize the bulk of the population before the danger period arrives.

Burney expects the flu epidemic here—if it comes—to be a mild variety of the disease with a far lower death rate than in disease-ridden, poverty-stricken Asian nations.

Actually the oriental flu itself, as far as it is known, does not cause death directly but following in its wake can come killers—diseases brought on in complications.

Toothless Lion Cub Disrupts Peaceful Scene

BURWELL, Neb. (UP)—A toothless lion cub, apparently bored with its role in a rodeo clown's act, wandered into a crowd of spectators to play with a little girl

The girl bent over to pet the "pretty kitty" Thursday afternoon and a near panic broke loose.

The lion scratched Ellen Kruse, 6, in the excitement. Ellen's mother, Mrs. Wallace Kruse, Colon, Neb., unaware the lion was tame and toothless, did battle with the cub with her bare fists.

She beat the beast on the head for nearly a minute before the trainer pulled the lion back into the arena and order was restored.

Ellen was scratched on her left leg and on her forehead. Officials at Burwell Hospital said "about 10 stitches" were needed to close the leg wound. They said Ellen probably will be released from the hospital today.

Bad Employment

DALLAS, Tex. (UP) — A man walked into a Safeway grocery store Thursday night and asked manager W. C. Watts for a job. When Watts told him he had no openings, the man drew a pistol and robbed the store safe of more than $1,000 and fled in a station wagon.

Wealthy Dentist's Wife Is TV 'Villainess'

By ALINE MOSBY

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—What to do when you're the socialite wife of a wealthy dentist with time on your hands: Become a top "villainess" on television.

In "The Lineup," "Lux Video" and other shows, one of the familiar actresses who usually plays shady characters is beautiful Dorothy Green.

But behind scenes the curvaceous redhead turns out to be not the usual ambitious actress, struggling desperately for breaks, but a dentist's socialite wife who casually plays leads on TV "as a hobby."

"It's the old theory—if you don't want something it wants you," speculated the actress today.

"If I'd wanted a career, it wouldn't have wanted me. But when I didn't give a whoop or a holler—"

Turned Down Director

Years ago an agent wanted to introduce the native Los Angeleno to a movie director, but she went fishing with a handsome dentist instead. She married the tooth-puller and had three children.

Ten years later she took a modeling course just for personal fun. An agent spotted her photograph.

"He told me I should try acting, so I studied with a dramatic coach and attended the Pasadena Playhouse; more or less as a pastime," she said.

"One day a casting director asked if I had a mink stole—there was a part of a rich girl in a 'Four Star Playhouse' on TV."

Having numerous furs in her closet, the dentist's wife won the role, in January of 1953. A year later she was playing leads opposite Dick Powell on the same show. She has worked constantly on numerous programs, including the Jack Benny show, and in such motion pictures as "The Helen Morgan Story."

The elegant socialite usually portrays evil ladies, a situation that causes her ruffled moments in real life.

"My children (14, 13 and 10) say, 'When are you going to be a nice lady?'" she laughed. "My son thinks I'd be made if I could get into a Western.

"I also teach the fourth grade at Sunday school and they tease me about the parts I play."

Mrs. Green has no regrets about starting later than usual in life on a career.

"I'm happy I was not an actress at 15," she said. "Now I have my sense of values. I know what's what—and that home and husband mean the most.

"My husband doesn't care if I act, so long as it doesn't interfere with things at home. So—this has been just a little hobby that boomeranged."

Sammy Davis Jr. To Join KDKA's 'Program P. M.'

Sammy Davis, Jr., one of the most talented entertainers in American show business, will do a special one-hour, weekly segment for KDKA's new night-time show, "Program P.M.", beginning in September, it was announced today by Gus Harris, program manager.

By means of a unique format, Davis will have the greatest possible latitude for his own abilities as singer, instrumentalist, impersonator and dancer, and for the talents of top-flight guest stars.

KDKA's behind-the-scenes concept of Program P.M. will be maintained by Davis in a series called "Coffee Corner," in which he'll talk with such stars as Frank Sinatra, Bing Crosby, Lauren Bacall, Judy Garland, Tony Curtis, Jeff Chandler, Nat 'King' Cole, Janet Leigh, Alan King and Jimmy Van Heusen. These should offer listeners a source of show business information and opinions more candid and revealing than anything they've ever heard before.

According to Westinghouse Broadcasting Company, Inc., producers of the new show, this is Sammy's first regularly scheduled broadcast series. It will be also used by four other WBC radio stations in their Program P.M. series, in addition to KDKA.

Defense Against Polio Begins on Home Front

By H. N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

Polio isn't whipped yet, so let's not drop our guard. I don't want any community anywhere to experience an upsurge in the number of infantile paralysis cases such as we had in Chicago last summer.

Through an emergency mass inoculation program, we were able to help bring the situation under control. However, another community might not have the same good fortune.

The first line of defense is right there in your own home. And you are the front line troops.

Unfortunately, it's not always as simple to diagnose a case of polio as you might imagine. The chief stumbling block is that there is no characterisric sign or symptom which is found in every case.

Laboratory studies often are needed to establish a diagnosis accurately. And these tests can't be made until symptoms develop. That's why it's of the utmost importance to detect and report to your doctor immediately any suspicion of polio.

Be especially alert if anyone in the family, particularly a child complains that he cannot bend his head forward as far as usual.

Be on the lookout also for a fever associated with a bad headache, or with muscle pains in the legs or arms or neck or back.

During this polio season be suspicious even of minor upsets among the children. A slight cold linked with pain in the joints, or just nausea, vomiting or diarrhea means summoning the doctor.

Very often a youngster coming down with polio may be drowsy or restless. He may be irritable and feverish. He's apt to complain about being moved and resist all efforts to move him.

The odds, of course, are on your side. Large numbers of cases of polio are so slight that the victims pass them off as simple summer colds. And many more harbor the virus without any visible reactions at all.

Industrial Activity Stable

UNIVERSITY PARK (UP)—Definite signs of stabilization were prevalent in Pennsylvania industrial activity during June, the Pennsylvania State University Bureau of Business Research reported Wednesday.

Activity for the first half of 1957 averaged one per cent above the previous year, the bureau said. The Penn State index of industrial activity in June fell one per cent from May, and was unchanged from a year ago.

From May to June, department store sales increased 7 per cent while anthracite and bituminous coal, eastern district steel production, factory payrolls, industrial power sales and motor vehicle sales all showed gains.

The bureau said the cost of living from May to June increased another one-half per cent. Consumer prices and retail food costs continued to rise in June to all-time highs.

Unemployment during the month was up nearly three per cent from a year ago.

No changes from May to June were recorded for Pittsburgh steel production, factory hours and factory employment.

Declines were reported in bank debits, carloadings, life insurance sales, building operations and contracts and postal receipts.

The highest rates since 1953 were reported for anthracite and bituminous coal production.

Fish Is Caught?

CHICAGO (UP)—No, that wasn't a flying fish that perched on William Krull's fishing pole. A water-logged parakeet seized the tip of Krull's rod when he let it dip into Lake Michigan. Krull took the parakeet home.

TRAGEDY AVERTED — Mrs. Carol Ply hugs her 21-month-old son Scott after another of those "well tragedies" was averted in Temple City, Calif. Scott tumbled 24 feet to bottom of a newly-dug cesspool. Rescuers were unable to get him into a basket, so Fireman James Dunlap went down for him.

Another Delay in Nuclear Testing

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UP)—The Atomic Energy Commission has announced the fourth consecutive 24-hour delay because of weather conditions in the firing of the 11th nuclear device of the test series at the Nevada proving grounds.

Scientists Thursday were forced to postpone the detonation of the "shasta" device until 4:45 a.m. p.d.t. Saturday. They said winds might have blown fallout over populated areas.

Rules of Success

CHICAGO (UP) — Ben Benson, 73, elected "king of the hoboes" six times, gave the reasons for his "political" success and longevity. "I stay away from women, whisky and steady jobs," he said.

U. S. Army Is Ready For Any Attack by Communists in Europe

(This is the fifth in a series by the United Press military expert. It deals with U. S. Army forces in Europe.)

By CHARLES CORDDRY

HEIDELBER, Germany (UP) — One-fourth of the entire U. S. Army is deployed in Europe today — ready to meet any Communist ground attack with devastating firepower.

Gen. H. I. Hodes, top Army man in the continent, says a Russian assault can be stopped by his formidable force with the help of present and planned Allied divisions.

The aim—if the struggle to prevent war fails—is to hold firm at or near the Iron Curtain to give air power time to retaliate before Red land forces could overrun Western Germany.

"That is the one thing we're going to make every effort to do," Hodes says.

The commander makes no attempt to conceal the gravity of his problem. If war comes, he tells inquirers at his headquarters here, "we would be subjected to missile attack"—and there is "no reason" to doubt the Reds could use atomic weapons.

Hodes said the Russians "do not lag" in developing tactical type weapons for battlefield use. But unit-for-unit and weapon-for-weapons, the Americans can meet the Russians on at least equal terms, even if they are numerically inferior.

Surprise Attack Unlikely

It now is highly unlikely, Hodes believes, that the Reds could spring a surprise ground attack. He feels they would have to mobilize in such strength as to alert the Allied forces on the Central European front.

With warning, the general says, his forces could withstand a nuclear attack and strike back promptly. He keeps the command ready to go into action "in a matter of hours." Frequent alerts require combat units to disperse within two hours for defense against simulated nuclear blows.

It is giving away no secret to report that U.S. ground forces in Western Germany have the rocket launchers and artillery pieces to hurl 57 atomic warheads at one time—if that should be necessary. And each one could be at least as powerful as the World War II Hiroshima bomb.

Massed Missile Barrage

That power is embodied in three Honest John rockets, five Corporal guided missiles and five atomic cannon battalions.

Such is the barrage a Red army, massed in attack, could expect; to say nothing of the power in Air Force jet planes and Matador missiles in West Germany. And there are several more atomic-missile battalions in the Army's Southern European task force based near Verona, Italy.

Hodes' forces total about 250,000 men. They are stationed from England to the East German and Czechoslovakian borders and in Berlin. He says 75 per cent are in combat or combat - support units.

The principal fighting element of Hodes' command is Lt. Gen. Bruce C. Clarke's U.S. 7th Army. It comprises about half of total Army manpower in Europe and is regarded as the finest field army the country has maintained in peacetime.

It cost 1 billion dollars to set up the 7th, Clarke says, and it takes $1,200,000,000 a year to keep it going.

"Our job is to be constantly combat ready," Clarke says, "and we are—ready to play our part in cold war, warm war or hot war. Our soldiers feel the sense of urgency. They understand why they're here."

Holds 250-Mile Front

Clarke has the immense responsibility of holding about 250 miles of the 450-mile Central European front. He does it with two infantry, one airborne and two armored divisions, screened by three cavalry regiments which constantly patrol the Iron Curtain by air and tank.

His security and that of other West Europe forces will be enhanced further this year by introduction of Nike anti-aircraft missiles to American and Allied units.

On the northern flank of the 7th Army is the British Army of the Rhine — 77,000 men and four divisions strong at the moment, but scheduled for a 13,000 - man cut.

Opposite the British, American and small additional European ground elements — including new German forces — are 22 Russian divisions in East German and Czechoslovakian divisions.

U. S., Canada Take Step in Defense Merger

WASHINGTON (UP)—The United States and Canada took a big step forward today in setting up one overall North American air command to defend against possible Russian attack.

The two countries outlined plans for partially merging their air defense forces and putting them under the single control of U.S. Air Force Gen. Earl E. Partridge.

Partridge would be responsible to the chiefs of staff of both countries. His deputy commander-in-chief would be Air Marshal C. R. Slemon, Canadian chief of air staff.

The two countries announced Thursday night they have "agreed to the setting up of a system of integrated operational control of the air defense forces in the continental United States, Alaska and Canada."

The joint headquarters of the two air officers will be situated at Colorado Springs, Colo. Known as Adcanus, the headquarters will be organized along lines similar to the central command of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO).

The full powers of the commander and his deputy remain to be worked out in detail, a Pentagon spokesman said.

Transit Twins

CHICAGO (UP)—Passengers on local transit lines aren't necessarily off their trolley if they say they keep running into the same conductor. The Chicago Transit Authority says it has four sets of twins on its payroll.

New TV Channel Starts Sept. 1

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Television station WIIC, Channel 11, will begin programming Sept. 1, Robert A. Mortensen, general manager, said Thursday.

Mortensen said advance notice of the programming date was needed to facilitate a switch-over of National Broadcasting Co. programs from KDKA-TV to the new station.

WIIC will be directly associated with NBC. KDKA-TV will become a Columbia Broadcasting System affiliate following the switch-over.
